BJP'S BIG SOUTHERN PITCH: MODI SOUNDS POLL BUGLE IN TN, KERALA

Kerala, TN eager for political change: PM Modi

Modi dubs Congress 'Muslim League–Maoist', vows to to end 45-year left rule; 'Kerala and Tamil Nadu are awaiting political change'

'Jhande Alag, Agenda Ek': Kerala set for parivartan: PM

THIRUVANANTHAPURAM

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Friday signalled the BJP's push to expand its footprint in Kerala, declaring that the state was on the cusp of "Parivartan".

Addressing a public rally in the state capital ahead of the upcoming Assembly elections, Modi said the enthusiasm on display reflected a changing political mood in the state.

"Your energy gives me confidence that Kerala will definitely witness Parivartan," he said, adding that Thiruvananthapuram symbolised the aspirations of a new and evolving Kerala.

'Will send Sabarimala gold heist culprits to jail'

The PM said the entire country has deep and unwavering faith in Lord Ayyappa, but alleged that the LDF government in Kerala had repeatedly hurt the traditions of the Sabarimala temple.

Referring to recent reports of gold theft from the shrine, including from the sanctum sanctorum, Modi said such incidents had shaken public faith. He assured that if a BJP government is formed in the state, a comprehensive probe into the allegations will be conducted and those found guilty will be sent to jail. "This is Modi's guarantee," he said.

'BJP civic win extraordinary'

The Prime Minister pointed to the BJP's recent victory in the Thiruvananthapuram Municipal Corporation as evidence of growing public support, calling it "extraordinary" rather than routine.

He said the mandate reflected the people's determination to move away from what he described as the corruption and misgovernance of the ruling Left Democratic Front (LDF) and the opposition United Democratic Front (UDF).

"BJP's victory here is a victory of the resolve to defeat the corruption of both LDF and UDF," Modi said.

'Tamil Nadu will have 'double-engine NDA govt'

CHENNAI

Kickstarting the National Democratic Alliance's (NDA) Assembly election campaign from Madurantakam in Tamil Nadu on Friday, Prime Minister Narendra Modi hit out at the ruling DMK, and said the countdown for its exit has begun and a "double-engine NDA government" will be formed in the State.

Addressing a public meeting in Madurantakam in Tamil Nadu's Chengalpattu district, Modi took several jibes at the DMK, saying the party has betrayed the trust of people and alleged that it is involved in corruption. He said people are calling the "DMK government the CMC (corruption, mafia, crime) government".

"You gave DMK a full majority twice, but they broke the trust of the people of Tamil Nadu. DMK made heaps of promises but delivered zero work. People are now calling the DMK government the CMC government. CMC government means a government that promotes 'Corruption, Mafia, and Crime.' The people of Tamil Nadu have now made up their minds to uproot both DMK and CMC. Here, a BJP-NDA double-engine government is certain to come to power."

He alleged that Tamil Nadu has a government that lacks "democratic values and accountability". "The DMK government serves the interests of a single family rather than the people of the state. Opportunities for advancement within the DMK seem limited, often favouring those connected by dynasty or those willing to engage in corruption, mistreatment of women, or disrespect of our culture," he said.

"As a result, only individuals who are willing to participate in such behaviours are being promoted within the party. This has had serious consequences for Tamil Nadu, as the state suffers from the effects of these actions," he added.

The Prime Minister said the "massive crowd" present here is sending a strong message in Tamil Nadu and the nation. "The message that Tamil Nadu is now ready for a change. The state wants liberation from misrule of DMK and wants the BJP-NDA government," he said. Beginning his address, PM Modi remembered former Tamil Nadu CM MG Ramachandran and also paid tribute to freedom fighter Netaji Subhas Chandra Bose on his 129th birth anniversary.

"In 2026, this is my first visit to Tamil Nadu. A few days ago, the birth anniversary of Bharat Ratna MGR was celebrated. Today is Netaji Subhas Chandra Bose's birth anniversary, and it is celebrated as Parakram Diwas. Courageous freedom fighters fought for independence alongside Netaji. Bravery and patriotism are ingrained in every person of Tamil Nadu," he said.

'Dappa engine' Won't run in Tamil Nadu: Stalin

Chief Minister M K Stalin on Friday mocked the BJP's "double engine" government model as "Dappa engine" and asserted it would not be formed in Tamil Nadu. Responding to Prime Minister Narendra Modi's remarks at the political rally of NDA ahead of the upcoming Assembly elections, Stalin said Tamil Nadu had achieved historical development despite the restrictions imposed by the Centre. "The 'Double Engine' that the Prime Minister speaks of as "Dappa Engine" won't run in Tamil Nadu!," Stalin said in a post on X. "Honourable Prime Minister Sir...Despite all the barriers imposed by the Union BJP government, Tamil Nadu has achieved the kind of development that history speaks of by shattering them," he said. While launching the poll campaign for the NDA ahead of the Assembly election, the Prime Minister said, "we have to free TN from the clutches of the DMK" and batted for a "double engine" government in the state that walks "shoulder to shoulder" with the Centre for Tamil Nadu's growth and progress.

'Democracy is now in exile': Hasina blasts Yunus

NEW DELHI

Though Sheikh Hasina did not appear in person, her speech - broadcast to a packed hall - was sweeping in its rhetoric and unsparing in its characterisation of Muhammad Yunus, whom she repeatedly labelled a "murderous fascist

Ousted Bangladesh Prime Minsiter Sheikh Hasina alleged on Friday that elections next month would not be free or fair, in her first public speech since being sentenced to death in absentia for crimes against humanity.

Hasina (78) fled to neighbouring India in August 2024 after a student-led uprising ended her 15-year, iron-fisted rule, and has not been seen in public since. Her speech is likely to further aggravate ties between New Delhi and Dhaka, which have soured since her ouster.

"Bangladesh stands today at the edge of an abyss, a nation battered and bleeding," Hasina said in English during an audio message broadcast to a packed press club in the Indian capital. "Democracy is now in exile," she said.

In November, Hasina was found guilty by a Dhaka court of incitement, order to kill and inaction to prevent atrocities, and sentenced to be hanged. The activities of her former ruling Awami League, once the country's most popular, have been outlawed.

"Bangladesh must defend and restore the constitution written in the blood of martyrs, reclaim our independence, safeguard our sovereignty, and revive our democracy," Hasina said.

'Yunus a murderous fascist'

In her first address to a public gathering in India since leaving Bangladesh in 2024, Sheikh Hasina launched a blistering attack on Nobel laureate Muhammad Yunus, accusing him of running an "illegal, violent" regime and plunging the country into what she described as an age of terror, lawlessness and democratic exile.

Though Hasina did not appear in person, her speech - broadcast to a packed hall - was sweeping in its rhetoric and unsparing in its characterisation of Yunus, whom she repeatedly labelled a "murderous fascist," "usurer," "money launderer," and "power-hungry traitor."

India, EU likely to announce conclusion of trade talks on Jan 27

NEW DELHI

India and the European Union are expected to announce the conclusion of protracted negotiations for a free trade pact on Tuesday, opening the way for reduced tariffs on European cars and wine and expanded market for Indian electronics, , textiles and chemicals, two Indian and EU government sources said.

The announcement could follow Indian Prime Minister Narendra Modi's meeting with European Council President Antonio Costa and European Commission President Ursula von der Leyen, who will co-chair an India-EU summit during their visit to India from January 25 to 28, one of the Indian government sources said.

If finalised and ratified by the European Parliament, a process that could take at least a year, the trade pact would boost Indian exports such as textiles and jewellery, the official said. Negotiations were relaunched in 2022 after a nine-year pause, gaining traction last year amid rising trade tensions.

In August, US President Trump doubled tariffs on Indian imports to as much as 50%, among the highest in the world.

PANDEMIC-FUNDING EFFECT

'Too China-centric': US exits WHO, ending major global role

WASHINGTON

The US has officially withdrawn from the World Health Organization (WHO), leaving the UN agency without one of its biggest donors.

US President Donald Trump signed an executive order signalling the withdrawal a year ago, having criticised the organisation for being too "China-centric" during the Covid pandemic. The US Department of Health and Human Services said it took the decision due to the WHO's alleged "mishandling" of the pandemic, an inability to reform and political influence from member states.

The WHO has rejected these claims and its director general Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus said the withdrawal was as a loss for the US and the world.

The organisation pointed to its global efforts to combat polio, HIV aids, maternal mortality, and its international treaty on tobacco control.

In the wake of the pandemic, WHO member states worked to create an international pandemic treaty designed to prevent, prepare for, and respond to future pandemics, including sharing vaccines and drugs more fairly. The treaty was finally agreed in April last year by all WHO member states, apart from the US.

Washington has traditionally been one of the biggest donors to the WHO, but has not paid its fees for 2024 and 2025, which has already caused huge job losses at the organisation.

Although WHO lawyers suggest the US is obliged to pay the arrears - estimated at $260m (£193m) - Washington said it saw no reason to do so.

It said that all US government funding to the WHO has been terminated, US personnel and contractors have been recalled from the WHO HQ in Geneva, Switzerland and its offices worldwide, and hundreds of US engagements with WHO have been suspended or discontinued.

HC lifts bike taxi ban, directs government to grant permits

The court directed bike owners and aggregators to apply for licences, and instructed the state government to issue permits in accordance with existing laws

Aggregators are also free to submit fresh applications, which must be processed following the court's observations; The blanket ban came into effect on June 16, 2025.

The Karnataka High Court on Friday lifted the ban on bike taxi services in the state, setting aside an earlier single-judge order that had upheld the Siddaramaiah government's prohibition.

A division bench headed by Chief Justice Vibhu Bakhru and Justice CM Joshi allowed appeals filed by aggregators, including Ola, Uber and Rapido, ruling that bikes can be used as transport vehicles subject to legal permissions.

The court dismissed the April 2025 ban order and directed bike owners and aggregators to apply for licences, and instructed the government to issue permits in accordance with existing laws.

The court said that while the state can examine all relevant aspects of applications, it cannot refuse taxi registration simply because the vehicle is a motorcycle.

"Taxi owners are allowed to apply to register motorcycles as transport vehicles or contract carriages, and the state must consider these applications in accordance with the law. Aggregators are also free to submit fresh applications, which must be processed following the court's observations," the order said.

The state's blanket ban on bike taxi services came into effect on June 16, 2025.

The state government had enforced the ban following a High Court verdict that upheld an earlier government order declaring platforms like Rapido, Ola, and Uber Moto illegal, citing the absence of a clear regulatory framework.

At the time, the aggregators appealed to Chief Minister Siddaramaiah and Congress MP Rahul Gandhi, urging immediate intervention to halt the ban, warning that it would jeopardize livelihoods and disrupt affordable daily commutes for millions.

Two months later, however, bike taxi operator Rapido resumed services in August 2025 without court approval, prompting the Karnataka State Private Transport Association to file a formal complaint, alleging that the company's actions amounted to contempt of court.

Lifting of bike taxi ban evokes mixed reactions

The High Court of Karnataka's lifting of the bike taxi ban has drawn mixed reactions, even as the detailed judgment has not yet been made public. While ride-hailing firms Rapido and Uber welcomed the judgment, the Federation of Karnataka State Private Transport Associations raised questions over whether personal two-wheelers can be allowed as bike taxis until the Transport Department devises a policy. Federation president S Nataraj Sharma said the court had directed the State to register motorcycles as transport vehicles and grant them contract carriage permits. However, it is not clear if personal motorcycles (with white boards) can operate as can operate as bike taxis in the interim, he noted. "We'll have clarity once the full judgment becomes available, he added. Welcoming the court's decision, Uber stated the ruling would bring relief to lakhs of drivers who depend on bike taxis for their livelihood. "Bike taxis serve as a vital mobility lifeline for Indian cities, offering people an affordable and convenient way to navigate traffic. The decision will also bring relief to lakhs of drivers who depend on it for their livelihood," the spokesperson added. "We look forward to engaging with the state government on operationalising this mobility ecosystem and serving the mobility needs of our cities across the spectrum," a company spokesperson said in a statement. A Rapido spokesperson termed the judgment "progressive.

Appoint nodal officer to prevent child begging: HC

BENGALURU

The High Court has directed the state government to appoint a nodal officer to coordinate with the concerned departments to prevent child begging and formulate a comprehensive action plan for their rehabilitation.

A division bench comprising Chief Justice Vibhu Bakhru and Justice CM Poonachha heard a public interest litigation filed by Let's Kit Foundation seeking directions to the government to identify children involved in begging and bring them into the mainstream of society.

The bench, after hearing the arguments, directed the state government and the GBA to submit a status report on the total beggar cess collected by the urban local bodies and panchayats of the state, including the GBA, the amount paid to the Central Relief Committee, and the remaining amount. It directed the government to appoint a nodal officer to coordinate with the concerned departments to prepare the action plan and adjourned the hearing to April 1.

During the hearing, the Additional Advocate General submitted the certificate submitted by the Chief Accountant of the Greater Bengaluru Authority regarding the collection of beggar cess to the court. Accordingly, Rs. 86.26 crores were collected in GBA in 2024-25. Beggar cess was collected, out of which Rs. 10.32 crores were paid to the Central Relief Committee (CRC). In the current year, Rs. 73.12 crores have been collected so far. Now there are 5 new corporations in GBA, last year's balance is Rs. 75 crores. He informed that the Commissioners of the respective corporations have been directed to pay the beggar cess share of this year to the Central Relief Committee by March 31.

The information about the cess collected in the panchayats is yet to come from the Rural Development Department. In the survey conducted by the authority, 720 children who were engaged in begging were identified. Some recommendations have been suggested for rehabilitation, he brought to the notice of the court.

'If Cong changes project name, it is a virtue, but if we do, it is a sin'

BENGALURU

The state Congress government is feeling frustrated that the shop of corruption will be closed due to the VB Ji Ram Ji scheme.

There are two steering wheels in the Chief Minister Siddaramaiah government. However, the engine is missing. This has set back development projects, said Union Agriculture and Rural Development Minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan, sarcastically.

He was speaking at a press conference ahead of a workshop organized for all the MLAs of the alliance on the VB Ji Ram Ji scheme, which was implemented by the Centre after the abolition of the MNREGA.

There is a fear that Congress will close its shop of corruption due to Ramji's scheme. Due to the chair fight in the current government, there are two steering wheels and no engine. Therefore, even though Ramji has given a guarantee of work, Siddaramaiah does not understand, he said.

The incident that took place in the joint session of Karnataka has tarnished the reputation of democracy. It was impossible to read the Governor's speech. The Congress is lying on the MNREGA issue. It has become like a lying machine. They have blamed the Centre to cover up their failure, they said.

The current work day has been increased to 125. For this, Rs 1,51,282 crore has been allocated for this project. There are 2.86 lakh gram panchayats and villages. The gram panchayat has not taken away its power. Instead, the Vikasita Bharat Yojana has been decided by the gram sabha itself. All the work done in the villages, including the irrigation project, can be done. There is a system to provide work to the workers for 60 days during the monsoon season. Farmers urgently need workers. We will provide those workers. The Congress cannot tolerate this, he said.

The Congress had earlier named the NREGA scheme as Jawahar Rozgar Yojana. It had removed Jawahar and changed it to NREGA. Now we have changed it by naming it after Vikasita Bharat Ram Ji. If the Congress does it, it is a meritorious act. If we do it, is it a sin, he asked.

1.5k vehicles added daily, but road network stuck at 2015

BENGALURU

While the city's expansion has forced town-planners scurrying back to the drawing board every other year, Bengaluru's road network has remained almost static at 13,000 km over the past decade, a period in which the number of vehicles has nearly doubled and the public transport fleet remained the same. Bengaluru roads are buckling under the weight of its own growth, pushing traffic to the crawl-mode across large swathes of the city.

Transport department data shows that registered vehicles in Bengaluru shot up from 64.4 lakh in March 2015 to more than 1.2 crore by December 2025, a staggering 90 percent jump. Around 1,500 new vehicles continue to be added every day, worsening an already strained traffic situation. With GST incentives kicking in, the number of new vehicles joining the already-busy roads is expected to rise further in this financial year.

A foretaste of this scenario came from October with average 2,700 vehicles hitting roads in that month. In December 2025, the trend continued with 53,398 new vehicles being added on average, 1722 a day, much more than the usual. Private vehicles dominate the surge. Of the total fleet, over 1.1 crore vehicles are privately owned, with two-wheelers and cars accounting for the lion's share.

Two-wheeler numbers doubled from 41.8 lakh to 84.6 lakh, while car registrations similarly climbed from 14.2 lakh to nearly 24.4 lakh during the decade under review.

Bengaluru currently has just 96 km of operational Metro lines with 83 stations, while the city's bus fleet stands unchanged at about 7,000 buses far too less, almost diminutive, for a metropolis of its size, sprawl and growth potential.

Mastanavali said it is a matter of pride that many scholarship students later secure medical, dental, and engineering seats under government quota, building stable and inspiring careers. Rao added that experienced teachers guide students not only in studies but also in sports, culture, and leadership. The initiative continues annually.

He was speaking at the "Aadhu Nodu Karnataka, Bidar Nadige" programme held at the Karnataka Sahitya Sangha auditorium in the city.

The event was jointly organised by Karnataka Sahitya Sangha and the Samajmukhi newspaper group from Bengaluru. Raipur said many young people admire foreign countries for their discipline and cleanliness, but they must also learn to value India's own culture and heritage. The walk-and-learn programme aims to remove feelings of inferiority and build pride in the country by taking youth to important historical and tourist places across Karnataka.

He said Bidar hosted the 25th edition of the programme, which began earlier in Sandur, and it will continue to travel to other districts as well. The initiative encourages people to experience the beauty, traditions, food, and folk culture of their own land.

Inaugurating the event, Karnataka Sahitya Sangha President Prof. Jagannath Hebbale described Bidar as a land of pilgrims, saints, and Sufis. He noted the district's rich history under various dynasties and the influence of different languages, yet praised local scholars who preserved Kannada language and literature, especially Vachana and Dasa traditions. Dr. Rajkumar Hebbale said the programme is meaningful because it inspires pride among youth about their state and nation. Other speakers shared similar views.

Harinath Babu gave the introduction. Several professors and cultural leaders attended. Dr. Rajkumar Hebbale welcomed the gathering, Dr. Ashok Kore compered, and Vaijinath Patil delivered the vote of thanks. Organisers said the journey will continue across Karnataka.

The website was inaugurated on January 21 by Minister for Minor Irrigation, Science and Technology, N.S. Bosaraju. It has been prepared by the festival promotion committee to provide detailed information about the event, including daily programs, photographs, posters, special videos, and other updates. Officials urged to protect children's future together

BIDAR

Karnataka State Commission for Protection of Child Rights Chairman Shashidhar Kosambe said everyone must treat child protection as a shared responsibility, not just a government duty.

He spoke at a district-level seminar on current child issues, held at Dr. Channabasava Pattadevaru Ranga Mandir in Bidar. The programme brought together officials from district, taluk and gram panchayat levels.

Kosambe said many laws exist, yet children still face abuse, exploitation and neglect. He noted that around 12 POCSO cases are registered daily in the state. Nearly 16,000 cases were filed in five years, but convictions came in only about 1,000, which he called alarming.

He warned that children are being blackmailed through social media. In several places, minor girls have faced early pregnancy, even in schools and hostels, raising serious questions. Zilla Panchayat Deputy Secretary Sharanappa Katteppagole said fast changing lifestyles make people forget their duty toward children. If society fails now, the future of children will suffer, he added. Child Welfare Committee Chairman Seemappa said every child deserves safety, care and dignity. Protecting them must be everyone's priority.

UNICEF Child Protection specialist Dr. K. Raghavendra Bhat explained key laws meant to safeguard children.

Before the seminar, participants took a voter awareness pledge. Police and Women and Child Development officials, along with district officers, attended the event.

Organisers said regular training, community vigilance, and timely reporting can reduce crimes against children.

Unity among educational institutions is the real strength that can bring lasting progress to society, said MLC Naseer Ahmed at the School Leaders Award Conference organised by the Federation of Minorities Educational Institutions (FEMI), Karnataka Chapter.

The event was held at Barry's Souharda Bhavan in Bengaluru and saw participation from more than 150 Muslim educationists, school leaders, and academic administrators from across the city. Speakers highlighted the role of private unaided minority institutions in delivering quality education despite limited resources.

Naseer Ahmed praised the hard work and discipline of such schools, saying their results show strong academic commitment. He noted that minority institutions play an important role in shaping society and said collective effort can help address their challenges.

FEMI National Secretary General Syed Tanveer Ahmed stressed the need for unity among minority institutions.

He said a strong collective voice helps bring attention from both political leaders and government authorities. He urged institutions to rise above differences and focus on educational quality, social responsibility, and shared growth.

FEMI Karnataka General Secretary Mohammad Asifuddin said the conference aimed to honour school leaders for their service and encourage further development. Awards were presented to several school heads during the event. A memorandum listing key demands related to minority education was also submitted through Naseer Ahmed to the concerned ministries.

Religious and educational leaders who spoke at the conference emphasized balanced education that includes moral values along with modern learning. Kallur Meghraj said the MP promised to follow up on the trust's long-pending demand after receiving a petition

Centre may name Shivamogga Airport after Kuvempu

SHIVAMOGGA

The Union government is expected to soon announce the naming of Shivamogga Airport after national poet Kuvempu, according to assurances given by Member of Parliament B.Y. Raghavendra.

This information was shared by Kallur Meghraj, Managing Trustee of the Shantaveri Gopal Gowda Samajwadi Study Center Trust. He said the MP promised to follow up on the long-pending demand during a meeting at his residence, where trust members submitted a formal petition.

Kuvempu, whose full name was Kuppali Venkatappa Puttappa, is one of Karnataka's most respected literary figures. He was the first Kannada writer to receive the prestigious Jnanpith Award in 1967. He was also honored with the Padma Bhushan in 1968 for his contribution to literature and education.

His famous works include the epic poem Sri Ramayana Darshanam, novels like Malegalalli Madumagalu and Kanooru Subbamma Heggadati, and the state song Jaya Bharata Jananiya Tanujate. Kuvempu also served as the Vice-Chancellor of Mysore University, and Kuvempu University was later established in his honor.

The trust pointed out that the Karnataka government had recommended several airport names over two years ago. These include naming Shivamogga Airport after Kuvempu, Hubballi Airport after freedom fighter Sangolli Rayanna, Vijayapura Airport after social reformer Basavanna, and Belagavi Airport after Kittur Rani Chennamma.

Trust members urged the MP to press the Centre for early approval.

Leaders present during the meeting included Shankranayaka, Aleen Khan, Basavaraj, K.R. Shivanna, and Bhrameshwar Yuvraj. They expressed hope that the long-standing demand would soon be fulfilled.

Youth Congress demands Governor recall, stages protest

SHIVAMOGGA

Members of the Shivamogga City Youth Congress staged a protest near the Ambedkar statue inside the Mahanagara Palike premises, demanding that the Governor of Karnataka be recalled.

They later submitted a petition addressed to the President, urging action against what they called a violation of constitutional values.

Speaking at the protest, KPCC General Secretary N. Ramesh accused the Governor of acting in a partisan manner. He alleged that the Governor behaved like an agent of the BJP and failed to uphold the dignity of his constitutional post.

Ramesh said it is the Governor's duty to address the joint session of the State Legislature. "Leaving without delivering the customary speech is an insult to the Constitution and to the people of Karnataka," he said.

Leaders also objected to reported moves to rename the MGNREGA scheme, saying Mahatma Gandhi's name must not be removed. They claimed such changes hurt public sentiment and go against the spirit of the freedom struggle.

Protesters said the Governor should act in a neutral and fair manner, respecting both the Constitution and the elected government. They warned that if no action is taken, the Youth Congress will launch a statewide agitation under the slogan, "Remove the Governor, Save Karnataka."

Several local leaders, activists, and party workers took part in the demonstration, raising slogans and holding placards expressing their anger. Organisers described the protest as peaceful but firm, saying their fight is to protect democratic traditions and constitutional respect in public life. They said more programmes will be planned after consulting state leaders and legal experts. Citizens were urged to stay united peacefully.

Collector urges public to follow traffic rules

KOPPAL

District Collector Dr. Suresh B. Itna urged citizens to strictly follow traffic rules, saying most road accidents happen because people ignore basic safety norms. He spoke at the launch of the 37th National Road Safety Jatha held at Gavi Math premises in Koppal on Friday.

The awareness rally was organised jointly by the district administration, police department, Regional Transport Office, District Legal Services Authority, Scouts and Guides, and NCC units. The Collector said minors should never be allowed to drive vehicles and stressed that even good roads cannot prevent accidents if rules are broken.

He said experts from IIT Madras are helping identify accident-prone "hotspots" in the district so that safety improvements can be made. Students from Scouts, Guides, and NCC have an important role in spreading awareness, he added.

Gavi Math seer Abhinava Gavisiddeswara Swamiji also addressed the gathering. He reminded people that just as they protect their mobile phones with screen guards, they must protect their heads by wearing proper helmets. He said life is precious and must be lived responsibly.

Superintendent of Police Dr. Ram L. Arasiddi said a single accident can destroy an entire family. He urged motorists to drive carefully every day, not only during awareness campaigns.

Regional Transport Officer Prabhuswami Hiremath said Road Safety Month programmes are being held across the district to encourage safe driving. The rally moved from Gavi Math to Ashoka Circle, where participants formed a human chain. Later, the Collector flagged off a road safety awareness vehicle. Officials said similar programmes will continue in schools and villages to build long-term habits of safe and responsible road use.

SHIMUL LANDSLIDE CHAOS

Repeated Landslide halts traffic near Shimul Dairy

SHIVAMOGGA

Traffic on the Shivamogga-Bengaluru route was severely disrupted after another landslide occurred near the Shimul Dairy underpass in Machenahalli. The incident has raised public frustration over the slow progress of the four-lane national highway project.

Only one side of the road has a service route, but delays in land acquisition have kept it closed to vehicles. Officials say that ongoing construction without completing earlier work may have contributed to the repeated landslides.

The underpass project, which began four years ago, remains unfinished. Earlier, a landslide at the same spot had been temporarily sealed with stones and soil. Now, the latest landslide has blocked traffic completely, especially for large vehicles, leaving motorists stranded or forced to turn back.

Commuters have expressed strong anger over repeated delays, citing safety risks and poor planning. Many allege that there are no visible signs of the project being completed before the next rainy season.

Residents and daily travelers are calling on the contractors and the concerned authorities to expedite the work and take preventive measures against further landslides. Meanwhile, officials are assessing the site to restore traffic flow and prevent additional disruptions.

The incident highlights ongoing concerns about infrastructure development, timely project execution, and road safety on Karnataka's key highway routes.

HDK to join farmers protest against Bidadi project

RAMANAGAR

Former Chief Minister and Union Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy will join farmers in an overnight sit-in protest on January 25, opposing the proposed Bidadi Smart City project, said former MLA A. Manjunath on Friday.

Addressing a press conference at Bidadi, Manjunath said the government plans to acquire thousands of acres of fertile land that farmers have protected for generations. He said Kumaraswamy would stand with the farmers and support their struggle against forced land acquisition.

Farmers from Kanchugaranahalli Bagad in Byramangala will join the protest along with their families on Sunday. He urged progressive organisations, pro-farmer groups, Kannada organisations, thinkers, and JDS workers to participate in large numbers.

Manjunath alleged that officials with vested interests are using police pressure to silence farmers who oppose the project. He claimed women raising concerns were threatened, and said he would reveal details about such officials during the protest.

He said 3,409 families fall under the project, but only 300 to 400 families have agreed. Despite this, authorities are falsely claiming full consent.

He warned that if a final notification is issued, a legal battle will follow.

Questioning finances, Manjunath said the government lacks funds even for city roads. He warned that if the project continues, farmers will launch stronger protests to protect their land and livelihoods.

Several local leaders and farmer representatives were present at the press meet. The leaders said the movement reflects growing anger in rural areas and called for dialogue respect transparency, warning that development without consent harms democracy unity peace justice and the future of farming communities across Ramanagar district.

People first planning urged for K'taka Budget

CHITRADURGA

State Decentralization Planning and Development Committee Vice Chairman D.R. Patil said upcoming state budget plans must reflect the real needs, feelings, and hopes of ordinary people, not just decisions made in big cities.

Speaking at an interaction meeting with elected representatives and officials of local bodies at the city's G.P. Hall, he stressed that planning should begin at the grassroots. He said Chief Minister Siddaramaiah has opened the door for villages and towns to directly shape development plans instead of depending only on Bengaluru or Delhi.

Patil said Panchayat Raj institutions must be strengthened to make Mahatma Gandhi's dream of Gram Swaraj a reality. Gram Sabhas, he said, are powerful democratic platforms, and their decisions cannot be changed even by the Chief Minister or Prime Minister. Local bodies should function like true village governments. He directed officials to spread awareness about the powers of Gram Sabhas and ward meetings by distributing pamphlets to every home before Republic Day. He expressed hope that Chitradurga would become a model district in people-led planning.

Deputy Commissioner T. Venkatesh said a major development blueprint is ready for the drought-hit district. Water from the Bhadra Upper Project is expected within months, which may boost farming. Plans also include better use of mineral resources and social justice programs.v

Rahul Gandhi urges PM Modi to address textile industry crisis

He highlighted the struggles of India's textile sector and called for urgent government intervention

NEW DELHI

Congress leader Rahul Gandhi on Friday flagged the severe impact of US tariffs on India's textile exporters. Sharing a video from his recent visit to a garment factory in Haryana, he praised the skill of Indian tailors and the resilience of workers but warned that job losses and factory shutdowns are rising due to trade challenges. Gandhi said 50 per cent US tariffs and uncertainty are hurting exporters, calling the situation part of India's "Dead Economy." He urged Prime Minister Narendra Modi to take immediate action, emphasizing that over 4.5 crore jobs and numerous businesses are at risk. Using the hashtag TINA, Gandhi criticized the government's lack of accountability on the matter.

He pointed out that India's textile sector is the second largest employer in the country and its products are loved globally. Falling international prices and stiff competition from Bangladesh and China are adding to the pressure. Units are closing, orders are decreasing, and the sector faces widespread uncertainty, Gandhi said.

During his factory visit, Gandhi interacted with workers and management, observing the production process and even trying his hand at cutting cloth. He stressed the need for a US trade deal that prioritizes Indian businesses and workers.

Gandhi concluded by urging Prime Minister Modi not to let personal or political weakness affect the economy, calling for genuine support to protect jobs, safeguard livelihoods, and ensure the textile industry continues to thrive.

JP NADDA RAISES CONCERN OVER BENGAL SAFETY

JABALPUR

Union Health Minister and former BJP president J.P. Nadda, speaking at a City Bengali Club event in Jabalpur on Friday, expressed concern that people from the Bengali community feel unsafe in West Bengal. He noted Bengal's historic contributions to India's freedom, culture, and knowledge, citing leaders like Subhash Chandra Bose, Rabindranath Tagore, and Shyama Prasad Mukherjee.

Nadda highlighted the contrast with Madhya Pradesh, where the Bengali community has been respected and elected to both Lok Sabha and Vidhan Sabha seats. He mentioned his mother-in-law,

He said Bengalis feel unsafe in West Bengal and called for change, praising Madhya Pradesh for providing respect and opportunities to the community.

Jayashree Banerjee, who represented Jabalpur in Parliament from 1999–2004 and served as a state minister, as an example of Bengal-origin leaders thriving in the state.

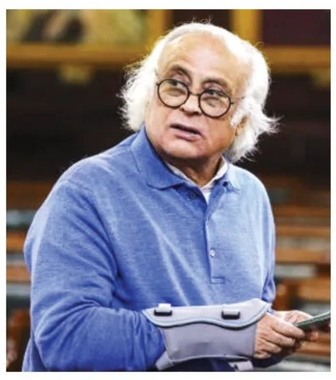
He said, "What Bengal thinks today, India thinks tomorrow," emphasizing the importance of Bengal in shaping national culture and politics. Addressing concerns raised by a Bengali community member, Nadda stressed that it is alarming that a community which contributed significantly to the nation now feels unsafe in its own state.

The BJP leader called for political change in West Bengal and suggested people will have the opportunity to influence this in the upcoming April-May elections. He also reiterated the party's strong ties with the people of West Bengal.

Nadda is on a two-day visit to Jabalpur and is scheduled to lay the foundation for a medical college in Katni on Saturday under the PPP model. The event was attended by his mother-in-law Jayashree Banerjee and wife Mallika Nadda, highlighting his family's long association with public service and the Bengali community.

Jairam moves SC challenging ex-post facto environ clearances

NEW DELHI



Congress leader and former environment minister Jairam Ramesh on Friday filed a petition in the Supreme Court challenging ex post facto environmental clearances. He said these approvals are "bad in law, harmful to public health, and make a mockery of governance."

Ramesh explained that retrospective clearances allow wilful violators to bypass laws, noting that ignorance of regulations cannot be an excuse. Last month, he had urged the Supreme Court to take suo motu action on three urgent environmental issues, citing the recent review of the Aravallis verdict as a precedent.

The Supreme Court had recalled its November 20 verdict redefining the Aravallis and opened the door for a review of its May 16 ruling that barred retrospective environmental approvals. The May 16 judgment had prohibited the Ministry of Environment, Forests and Climate Change (MoEFCC) and related authorities from granting post-facto clearances to projects violating environmental norms.

Ramesh criticized the recall of the earlier verdict, saying retrospective approvals, even with penalties, only legalize law-breaking and undermine governance. "Such approvals go against the foundations of jurisprudence and should never be permitted," he said.

The recall came through a 2:1 majority verdict by a bench of Chief Justice B.R. Gavai and Justices Ujjal Bhuyan and K. Vinod Chandran, who referred the matter to an appropriate bench for fresh consideration. Nearly 40 review and modification pleas were heard against the Vanashakti judgement.

Ramesh urged the Supreme Court to consider other urgent environmental matters suo motu, as it did with the Aravallis case, emphasizing the need to protect public health and ensure strict compliance with environmental laws.

R-Day rehearsal: Soldiers march undeterred in rain

NEW DELHI

Marching columns of soldiers in wet uniforms and boots held the full dress rehearsal for the Republic Day parade along Kartavya Path on Friday, despite steady rain and gusty winds. The first rain of 2026, brought by a strong western disturbance, delayed proceedings but did not dampen the spirits of the troops.

Soldiers marched in tight formations with precise steps, unfazed by slippery grounds and soaked clothing. Officers on foot, horseback, and atop military vehicles moved in perfect sync as flags flew high. Patriotic songs and narrations played across the ceremonial boulevard, adding to the festive mood.

Military floats, including Operation Sindoor and BrahMos missile systems, advanced through the rain, standing out against the grey sky. Commands rang out clearly, cutting through the sound of rain and thunder. Delhi Police and other security personnel, clad in raincoats, remained stationed at key points to maintain security throughout the rehearsal.

Spectators braved the wet conditions, using umbrellas, plastic sheets, and caps to stay dry. Mothers adjusted children's clothing, and the elderly covered themselves as they watched the march past. Some took brief shelter under temporary covers, while others remained seated, unwilling to miss the rehearsal.

According to the India Meteorological Department, rainfall between 8:30 am and 11:30 am measured 12.6 mm at Palam, 12.5 mm at Janakpuri, 11.8 mm at Lodi Road, 11.4 mm at Ridge, and 8.6 mm at Safdarjung. Mayur Vihar recorded 4 mm of rainfall. Thunderstorms, lightning, and gusty winds of 30-40 km per hour accompanied the showers, bringing relief from rising pollution levels across the city.

Over 20 Noida schools receive hoax bomb threat emails

NOIDA

Around 20 private schools in Noida received hoax bomb threat emails on Friday, triggering security checks, though authorities said the situation remained under control. Senior police officials, along with bomb disposal and dog squads, rushed to the schools and carried out thorough inspections.

No suspicious items were found, and all premises were declared safe. A cyber team is analysing the emails to trace their origin, with police noting that one message originated from a foreign address. An FIR has been registered under relevant sections of the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita and the IT Act. Police have stepped up surveillance at schools and sensitive locations. Authorities urged the public not to believe rumours and said normalcy was restored, allowing schools to resume activities.

Jailed murder convicts granted parole to marry

JAIPUR

In Jaipur's open-air prison, two high-profile murder convicts, Priya Seth (34) and Hanuman Prasad (29), have fallen in love and are set to marry this Friday. Both are serving life sentences for separate sensational murders in Rajasthan.

Seth was convicted for killing Dushyant Sharma in 2018 after meeting him on a dating app, strangling him, and hiding his body in a suitcase. Prasad, meanwhile, conspired with a woman he was in a relationship with to kill her husband and three children in a 2017 Alwar case. He was convicted in 2023.

Placed in Sanganer open jail, the two developed a relationship over the past year. They were recently granted 15-day parole after the Rajasthan High Court directed the parole committee to decide on their applications within seven days. Acting on the order, the committee approved their release, allowing them to leave prison on Wednesday. The wedding will take place in Barodameo, Prasad's native town in Alwar district.

Prison officials said the process followed the rules under the Rajasthan Prisoners Open Air Camp system, where selected inmates can work outside during the day and return to the camp in the evening.

The parole decision has sparked controversy. Sandeep Loharia, counsel for Seth's victim Dushyant Sharma's family, said they were not informed and will challenge the parole order in the High Court.

Despite the opposition, the extraordinary wedding has drawn public attention. Authorities emphasized that the couple's parole and upcoming marriage were approved under existing legal and prison procedures, highlighting the functioning of rehabilitation measures in open-air prison camps.

Kerala court grants bail to former TDB officer

KOLLAM

A Kollam court on Friday granted statutory bail to former Travancore Devaswom Board (TDB) administrative officer Murari Babu in two cases linked to the alleged gold loss from Sabarimala temple. Bail was given as 90 days had passed since his arrest, and the Special Investigation Team (SIT) had not filed chargesheets in either case.

Babu is the second accused in the case involving gold from the Dwarapalaka (guardian deity) idol plates and the sixth accused in the Sreekovil (sanctum sanctorum) doorframe case. Currently lodged at the Special Sub Jail in Thiruvananthapuram, he is expected to be released by Friday evening, making him the first arrested person in the Sabarimala gold loss probe to leave jail.

Babu was arrested in October last year for allegedly forwarding a proposal by prime accused Unnikrishnan Potty to electroplate the Dwarapalaka idols and Sreekovil doorframes, leading to the alleged gold loss. At the time, he was serving as Deputy Devaswom Commissioner in Haripad and was later suspended from service. Earlier, Potty had also secured statutory bail in the Dwarapalaka idol case.

So far, the SIT has named 16 people in the Dwarapalaka case and 13 in the Sreekovil doorframe case. Police sources said more arrested individuals may seek statutory bail if the charge sheets are further delayed.

The Kerala High Court recently expressed satisfaction with the investigation's progress, noting that an in-depth probe is ongoing. Babu's release highlights delays in filing chargesheets despite serious allegations in the high-profile Sabarimala gold loss cases.

SC issues notice on Thirupparankundram temple

NEW DELHI

The Supreme Court on Friday issued notices to the Centre, Tamil Nadu government, Archaeological Survey of India (ASI), and others on a plea seeking the ASI's takeover of the Thirupparankundram Lord Murugan Subramaniya Temple in Madurai and directions for daily lamp lighting atop the 'deepathoon' (stone pillar).

The plea, filed by the Hindu Dharma Parishad, also sought orders for lighting the entire hill with lamps every year during the Karthigai festival and allowing devotees to worship. During the hearing, the court was informed that the Madras High Court on January 6 upheld a single judge's order permitting the lamp lighting.

The High Court had criticized the Tamil Nadu government's claim that lighting the lamp would disturb public peace, calling it "ridiculous." The division bench of Justices G. Jayachandran and K.K. Ramakrishnan clarified that the stone pillar's location belongs to the Sri Subramania Swamy Temple. The Supreme Court bench of Justices Aravind Kumar and Vipul M. Pancholi will now await responses from the Centre, state government, and ASI before proceeding further.

AP moots Australia-style social media ban for U-16

AMARAVATI

The Andhra Pradesh government has formed a panel to study restricting or banning social media use for children under 16. The move comes after Australia recently passed a law setting 16 as the minimum age for social media access.

The committee, headed by IT Minister Nara Lokesh, includes State Home Minister Vangalapudi Anitha and Health Minister Satya Kumar. It will examine various state and international models to determine the best approach for Andhra Pradesh.

Home Minister Anitha said the focus will be on controlling social media abuse while ensuring children and parents face no penalties.

"Most platforms, like Facebook, ask for a user's age but do not verify it. Either a ban or restriction—this is the main task," Anitha said. She added that verifying age through documents could be an effective way to enforce limits. The committee will also study how other countries and Indian states handle the issue and share recommendations with the Centre.

The panel is expected to submit its report in a month after discussions with Chief Minister N. Chandrababu Naidu. Lokesh had earlier mentioned the possibility of limiting social media for children below 16 during the World Economic Forum in Davos. The ruling Telugu Desam Party welcomed the proposal, noting its importance for child safety.

With growing concerns about social media addiction and online abuse among minors, Andhra Pradesh is exploring ways to balance digital access with safety. The government aims to ensure that platforms take responsibility for verifying users' ages and protecting young people from potential harm while studying global best practices.

3-4 die daily over SIR anxiety: Mamata

Kolkata

West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee on Friday said three to four people in the state die by suicide daily due to stress over the ongoing Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of electoral rolls.

Speaking at a programme on Subhas Chandra Bose's birth anniversary at Red Road, she claimed that over 110 people have already died and urged the Election Commission and central government to take responsibility.

Banerjee also accused the BJP of plotting against Bengal and disrespecting national icons like Gandhi, Tagore, Bose, and Ambedkar.

Sangli resident alleges Muchhal cheated Rs 40L

Sangli

A Sangli resident, Vidnyan Mane, has accused music composer and singer Palash Muchhal of cheating him of Rs 40 lakh, officials said on Thursday.

Mane, 34, approached the Sangli Superintendent of Police seeking an FIR. He alleged that Muchhal promised to invest in his film project Nazaria as a producer and assured a profit of Rs 12 lakh on an initial investment of Rs 25 lakh. Trusting him, Mane invested Rs 40 lakh by March 2025. However, the project was never completed, and Muchhal allegedly ignored requests for a refund.

Police are currently conducting a preliminary investigation, though no FIR has been registered yet.

Namaz offered peacefully at Bhojshala mosque

Dhar

Namaz was offered peacefully at the disputed Bhojshala-Kamal Maula Mosque complex in Dhar district on Friday, officials said. Following the Supreme Court's directions, Muslims offered prayers between 1 pm and 3 pm at a designated spot within the complex. Meanwhile, Hindus performed Basant Panchami puja at Bhojshala.

The complex is an 11th-century monument protected by the Archaeological Survey of India. Hindus consider it a temple dedicated to Goddess Saraswati, while Muslims identify it as the Kamal Maula Mosque.

An ASI order from April 2003 allows Hindus to worship every Tuesday and Muslims to offer prayers on Fridays.

LDF-UDF pairing must be broken for progress: PM

PM Narendra Modi drew parallels between the BJP's beginnings in Kerala and its early journey in Gujarat state

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Friday lauded the historic BJP victory in the Thiruvananthapuram Municipal Corporation, saying it marks the end of decades of neglect by the Left Democratic Front (LDF) and United Democratic Front (UDF), and the beginning of a new era of development and good governance.

Addressing a gathering in Kerala's capital city, he also criticised the two fronts for perpetuating corruption and mismanagement.

"Both the LDF and UDF have, in various ways, driven Kerala into a cycle of corruption, mismanagement, and appeasement politics. Though they may use different flags and symbols, their underlying political approach and agendas are virtually identical: rampant corruption, a lack of accountability, and the promotion of divisive communalism. Both parties are well aware that their opportunity to govern resurfaces every five years, yet the core issues remain unaddressed," PM Modi said.

"For decades, both the LDF and UDF have neglected Thiruvananthapuram, depriving the city of basic facilities and infrastructure. The Left and the Congress have consistently failed to address the needs of our people. However, our BJP team has already begun working towards a developed Thiruvananthapuram. To the people of this city, I say: have faith- the change that has long been overdue is finally on its way," he added.

Hailing victory in the Thiruvananthapuram Municipal Corporation polls, he said, "This victory is a victory for good governance. This victory is a victory for the resolve to build a developed Kerala. This victory is a victory for the commitment to free Kerala from the corruption of the LDF and UDF."

PM Modi drew parallels between the BJP's beginnings in Kerala and its early journey in Gujarat.

"The left-leaning groups present here may not view me favourably. However, allow me to present the facts. Prior to 1987, the BJP was a marginal party in Gujarat. In 1987, for the first time, the BJP won control of the Ahmedabad Municipal Corporation--much like the party's recent victory in Thiruvananthapuram. Since then, the people of Gujarat have entrusted us with opportunities to serve, and we have continued to do so for decades. Our journey began in one city in Gujarat, and similarly, in Kerala, our beginnings have started with a single city," he said.

The Prime Minister emphasised that Thiruvananthapuram will now serve as a model city for the rest of the country.

"To the people of this city, I say, have faith. Thiruvananthapuram, for the entire country, will become a model city. I extend my full support to make Thiruvananthapuram one of the best cities in India," he added.

The PM also discussed Kerala's broader political scenario ahead of the upcoming elections.

"When considering the future of Kerala, the political landscape is divided into just two predominant sides, the LDF and the UDF. Over the years, both groups have taken turns governing the state, contributing to Kerala's current challenges. However, there is a third alternative--one that prioritises development and good governance--represented by the BJP and NDA," he said.

'DMK is CMC govt - corruption, mafia, crime': Modi

CHENNAI

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Friday trained guns at the ruling DMK in Tamil Nadu and accused it of dynastic politics.

The PM was addressing the first political rally of the NDA at Maduranthakam in Tamil Nadu ahead of assembly elections due in another 2-3 months.

Modi said the DMK government's days in the state are numbered as Tamil Nadu wants to be free of misgovernance. He also dubbed the DMK as "CMC -- Corruption, Mafia, Crime promoting govt."

"Tamil Nadu people have made up their mind to uproot DMK, CMC. The formation of BJP-NDA double engine government is for sure," he said.

"Dynasty, corruption, abuse women, abuse our culture are routes for one's growth in DMK," he added.

PM Modi arrived in Chennai on Friday and was received by Governor R N Ravi, state minister T M Anbarasan, Chief Secretary N Muruganandam and other officials at the airport here upon his arrival from Thiruvananthapuram.

'TIME TO BID FAREWELL TO DMK GOVERNMENT'

Modi said it was time to bid farewell to the "corrupt" DMK government in Tamil Nadu as he kick-started the NDA campaign for the assembly elections in the next few months. Ahead of his visit to Madurantakam near Chennai, Modi said the NDA's governance record and commitment to regional aspirations were resonating strongly with voters in Tamil Nadu. "Tamil Nadu is with NDA. I'll be joining NDA leaders at the rally in Madurantakam later today. Tamil Nadu has decided that it's time to bid farewell to the corrupt DMK government. The NDA's governance record and commitment to regional aspirations are striking a chord with the people of the state," Modi said in a post on X.

KHARGE, RAHUL MEET BIHAR CONG LEADERS

NEW DELHI

Congress National President Mallikarjun Kharge and Leader of Opposition Rahul Gandhi on Friday met senior Congress leaders from Bihar in New Delhi to discuss party strategy and address electoral setbacks.

The meeting was also attended by Congress General Secretary (Organisation) KC Venugopal and other senior leaders.

The gathering comes after Congress's poor performance in the 2025 Bihar Assembly elections. The party contested 60 seats but won only six, recording a conversion rate below 10 percent. This result was a major setback for the party, which was part of the Mahagathbandhan alliance along with the Rashtriya Janata Dal (RJD). The RJD also performed poorly, winning just 25 out of 143 contested seats.

The National Democratic Alliance (NDA), led by the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP), secured a historic landslide, winning 202 of the 243 seats and marking its second time crossing the 200-seat mark in Bihar. Within the NDA, BJP won 89 seats, Janata Dal (United) 85, Lok Janshakti Party (Ram Vilas) 19, Hindustani Awam Morcha (Secular) five, and Rashtriya Lok Morcha four seats. The Mahagathbandhan together could only manage 35 seats, giving the ruling alliance a strong three-fourths majority. Earlier, in November 2025, Kharge, Gandhi, and Venugopal held a meeting at the party headquarters to review reasons behind Bihar's electoral defeat and plan corrective measures.

During Friday's session, discussions focused on strengthening the party's organisation, preparing for upcoming elections, and strategising for future contests. Kharge and Rahul also held a separate review for the upcoming assembly elections in five states and Union Territories: Kerala, Tamil Nadu, Puducherry, West Bengal, and Assam. The leadership emphasised learning from past mistakes and working towards better voter outreach and performance in these crucial polls.

PM should rename Andaman Islands 'Azad Hind': Kavitha

HYDERABAD

Telangana Jagruthi founder K Kavitha has written to Prime Minister Narendra Modi, requesting that the Andaman and Nicobar Islands be renamed "Azad Hind" to honour freedom fighter Netaji Subhas Chandra Bose. She made the demand on Parakram Diwas, celebrated on January 23, marking Netaji's birth anniversary.

In her letter, Kavitha recalled that Netaji hoisted the national flag in Port Blair on December 30, 1943, declaring the islands as India's first territory freed from British rule. She noted that under the Provisional Government of Azad Hind, he had named parts of the islands Shaheed Dweep and Swaraj Dweep. Kavitha said that while some islands were renamed in 2018, the archipelago as a whole still retains its colonial-era name. She added that "Azad Hind" would symbolise India's first assertion of sovereignty and serve as a permanent tribute to Netaji's contribution to the freedom struggle.

Kavitha described the renaming as a matter of national pride that would inspire future generations, strengthen cultural awareness, and align India's geography with its historical fight for freedom. She urged the Union Government to initiate constitutional and administrative procedures to implement the change. Earlier, Union Home Minister Amit Shah paid tribute to Netaji on his birth anniversary, highlighting the islands' historical significance. In 2018, three islands were renamed: Ross Island became Netaji Subhas Chandra Bose Dweep, Neil Island as Shaheed Dweep, and Havelock Island as Swaraj Dweep.

Netaji, born in Cuttack in 1897, played a key role in India's independence movement and founded the Azad Hind Fauj. January 23 was declared Parakram Diwas by the central government in 2021 to commemorate his birth and valor.

Delhi HC extends Lokpal time on Mahua Moitra case

NEW DELHI

The Delhi High Court on Friday extended by two months the deadline for the Lokpal of India to decide whether to grant sanction to the CBI to file a chargesheet against Trinamool Congress MP Mahua Moitra in the alleged cash-for-query case, clarifying that no further extension would be granted.

A Division Bench of Justices Anil Kshetarpal and Harish Vaidyanathan Shankar said both Moitra's and the CBI's counsels did not oppose the extension. The Lokpal had sought additional time after its November 12 order granting sanction was quashed by the High Court over legal flaws, with directions to reconsider the matter and issue a reasoned order.

Moitra has argued that her submissions were not properly considered and that the Lokpal invoked the wrong statutory provision. The case stems from an October 2023 complaint. Moitra has denied the allegations and was re-elected from Krishnanagar in 2024.

Major bushfires force evacuations across Aus

Sydney

Major bushfires in southern Western Australia have led to road closures and evacuation orders for nearby towns. A fire in Fitzgerald River National Park, sparked by lightning on January 16, has burned over 60,000 hectares and threatens homes and lives. Residents in towns like Ravensthorpe were told to leave or shelter indoors. An evacuation center opened in Newdegate. The blaze is one of four major fires in the region, with authorities warning around 1,500 residents to monitor conditions and act quickly.

NK yet to announce schedule for 1st party cong in 5 years

Results from the congress, the highest decision-making body in the North, will determine the country's major policy lines for the next five years

SEOUL

North Korea's ruling Workers' Party is preparing for its first congress in five years, but the schedule remains unclear.

The event, expected to take place next month, will set the country's key policies on the economy, foreign affairs, and other areas for the next five years. Seoul officials predict it may happen in early February, though North Korean media has not yet provided details.

Historically, the North announces party congresses just days before they begin. In 2016, the seventh congress was announced nine days in advance, while the eighth in 2021 was revealed about a week beforehand. Preliminary procedures, like electing regional representatives, usually signal the approaching event. Analysts expect similar steps before the ninth congress, such as a Politburo meeting to finalize the schedule.

Ahead of the congress, North Korea has intensified discipline among government officials and highlighted achievements from economic plans. Leader Kim Jong-un recently dismissed the vice premier responsible for machinery, calling him "irresponsible," while personally inspecting or inaugurating construction projects tied to his regional development policy.

The upcoming congress, as the highest decision-making body in North Korea, will influence the nation's domestic and international strategies. Observers are closely watching preparations, public appearances, and internal movements for clues. How the North balances economic goals, military development, and foreign policy in the new five-year plan remains a key focus for Seoul and international analysts.

The ninth congress could shape the nation's direction amid ongoing geopolitical tensions and domestic economic challenges. Preparatory steps and official announcements are expected in the coming days or weeks, offering the first concrete indication of when the event will officially begin.

'Media observes history, adapts to social change'

India Today Group's Kalli Purie emphasizes media's role as observers of history, highlighting bilingual newsrooms and adapting to social and linguistic changes during the WEF 2026.

DAVOS

Executive Editor-in-Chief of India Today Group, Kalli Purie, spoke at WEF 2026 about how Indian media is evolving with social and linguistic changes. She highlighted the role of media as observers of history, stating that journalists must balance reporting with opinion while respecting cultural context.

Purie emphasized that newsrooms need to be open to change, pointing out that India Today Group's bilingual newsroom in Hindi and English has helped maintain balance during this transformation. She explained that Hindi-language journalists are now taking more central roles, challenging the dominance of English-speaking, elite-educated professionals, which has led to a more inclusive media environment.

Opinion columnist Brett Stevens from The New York Times discussed broader media challenges, noting that technological shifts and changing expectations are affecting journalism worldwide. He also highlighted the declining public trust in newspapers and television news, citing Gallup polls showing trust levels as low as 18 percent for print and 11 percent for television.

Executive Director of the Lancet Countdown, Mariana Romanello, added that transparency in sourcing and understanding differing viewpoints is essential for media credibility.

Purie concluded that India's media transformation has been significant and largely positive, with bilingual newsrooms and greater inclusion of regional journalists contributing to a more representative industry. She reinforced that while media has room for opinion, its primary responsibility remains observing and reporting history accurately.

The discussion at WEF 2026 reflected global challenges facing journalism, including trust, language, inclusion, and the balance between observation and commentary in an evolving social landscape.

Ala slams global apathy over Uyghur forced labour

WASHINGTON DC

Mamtimin Ala, President of the East Turkistan Government in Exile (ETGE), sharply condemned the Chinese Communist Party (CCP) for the ongoing use of Uyghur forced labour, calling it one of the gravest moral failures of modern history.

He described slavery as one of the oldest moral wrongs, now intensified by turning Uyghur Muslims into "mere instruments for profit" in full view of the world.

Ala emphasized that forced labour goes far beyond financial exploitation, stripping victims of dignity and humanity. He criticized global consumers who unknowingly or knowingly benefit from products made through this system. "Many consumers are aware that the products they purchase are tainted by slave labour, yet they remain indifferent," Ala said, warning that this complicity makes them "hidden enablers" of a global slavery operation of unprecedented scale.

The ETGE President stressed that modern slavery persists not only because of the cruelty and greed of those who impose it but also due to silent global consent. He said enslavers count on consumers' willingness to ignore the problem, turning greed into a worldwide moral collapse.

Ala's comments highlight the moral responsibility of governments, businesses, and individuals to address forced labour and prevent the exploitation of vulnerable populations. He urged international action to end the abuse of Uyghur Muslims and hold perpetrators accountable.

By framing forced labour as a shared global moral failure, Ala called on the world to confront its complicity and ensure that human dignity is upheld in supply chains and consumer markets worldwide.

Baloch rules legalise enforced disappearances

QUETTA

The Balochistan government has approved the "Prevention, Detention and Deradicalisation Rules 2025," triggering criticism for legitimising enforced disappearances.

The rules permit secret detention and interrogation without court oversight, which rights groups say targets activists and families of the missing.

The Human Rights Council of Balochistan reported 1,455 disappearance cases in 2025, with 1,052 still missing and 83 deaths in custody.

Activists warn the framework violates constitutional and international human rights standards and worsens the crisis.

UK counter-terrorism probes targeted attacks

LONDON

Scotland Yard is probing four targeted attacks on Pakistani dissidents in the UK, including a firearm incident, raising fears of foreign state-backed proxies.

Imran Khan supporter Mirza Shahzad Akbar was assaulted repeatedly, his home shot at, vandalised and nearly burned.

One suspect was arrested, bailed, as investigators examine possible attempts to silence critics abroad since Christmas Eve, police say ongoing.

Quetta stir: Pak arrests workers, shuts internet

BALOCHISTAN

Dozens of government employees were arrested in Quetta after authorities blocked a planned sit-in demanding the Disparity Reduction Allowance. The protest was stopped from reaching the city's high-security Red Zone, which was sealed with containers and heavy police presence overnight.

Workers from across Balochistan had gathered in the provincial capital after employee organisations called the sit-in to press for long-pending financial demands. The campaign had already slowed government work, with several departments operating at reduced capacity. When protesters could not enter the Red Zone, many regrouped near the Quetta Press Club, but police prevented the gathering and arrested dozens on the spot.

Authorities also suspended mobile internet services across Quetta and nearby areas, disrupting communication, online banking, navigation, and access to essential information. Civil society members criticized the shutdown, saying it unfairly punished the city's residents for a peaceful protest. Following the arrests, the Balochistan Grand Alliance announced a "jail bharo" campaign, urging government employees to court arrest in protest of what they called the state's heavy-handed response.

Karachi fire: Families protest 'slow action' by authorities

KARACHI

Nearly a week after the devastating fire at Gul Plaza shopping centre, families of missing victims staged protests, expressing anger at what they called slow action by authorities.

Women held photographs of sons, husbands, and brothers near the charred site, demanding faster rescue and accountability.

The fire on January 17 has killed at least 67 people, while dozens remain unaccounted for. Flames spread quickly through the mall, fueled by clothing, cosmetics, and plastic goods. Rescue teams are still working to clear rubble and locate missing persons, but progress has been slow. Families questioned why debris removal has not been completed even six days after the disaster, calling the delay "mentally unbearable."

Protesters ran from office to office seeking information, only to receive vague responses. Frustration escalated on MA Jinnah Road, a main city artery, as some demonstrators tried to push past security barriers to reach the site, hoping faster action might save lives. Police formed a cordon to prevent chaos.

The absence of a full official briefing on missing persons has fueled mistrust. Relatives also confronted Gul Plaza management, demanding immediate acceleration of recovery operations and accountability for the disaster.

Grief-stricken families continue to camp near the site, insisting on clear communication about the number of missing, a swift clearing of debris, and transparency in rescue efforts.

India advances semiconductor goals with Netherlands

VELDHOVEN

Union Electronics and IT Minister Ashwini Vaishnaw highlighted the significance of his visit to Veldhoven, Netherlands, as India advances its semiconductor ambitions. He stressed that lithography—the process of printing circuits onto semiconductor wafers—is the most complex and precision-critical step in chip production.

Vaishnaw underscored the role of ASML, the Dutch-based company and world's leading provider of lithography equipment, which enables almost every semiconductor chip globally. India's upcoming semiconductor fabrication plant in Dholera, Gujarat, will use ASML machinery to manufacture high-quality chips.

Vaishnaw said the visit aimed to study advanced technologies and foster international collaboration. He noted that many global equipment manufacturers are considering establishing operations in India.

Kamala Harris condemns child detention by ICE

WASHINGTON DC

Former US Vice President Kamala Harris expressed outrage after a five-year-old child was taken to a Texas detention center by US Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE). Harris said the child should be with family and not "used as bait" by authorities.

Harris's comments came after an ICE operation aimed at arresting the child's father on January 20. Tricia McLaughlin, Assistant Secretary of the Department of Homeland Security, defended ICE, saying the father abandoned the child and authorities made multiple attempts to have the mother take custody. The mother reportedly refused, and the father requested the child remain with him. ICE officers reportedly ensured the child's safety, even providing food and playing favorite music. The father and child remain together at Dilley.

McLaughlin also noted that parents have the option to leave with their children or designate a safe person for custody. She added that this practice is consistent with past administrations and that families can use the CBP Home app to manage departure and reentry legally.

The child and family, originally from Ecuador, applied for asylum at the Texas border in December 2024, according to their lawyer, Marc Prokosch. He stressed they are following legal procedures and are not illegal immigrants.

Local school superintendent Zena Stenvik confirmed the child was removed from a family car during the operation. The case has sparked debate over immigration enforcement and child welfare, drawing criticism from public figures and raising questions about ICE procedures in sensitive situations.

Harris concluded that Americans should share her outrage, highlighting the tension between immigration enforcement and the protection of children in such operations.

Indian equity markets in consolidation mode

Indian equity markets are moving through a consolidation phase, not a long-term change, a report said on Friday. The study noted that stocks are trading at low levels compared to gold and silver. In such times, spreading investments beyond equities has helped reduce risk. PL Asset Management said strong domestic fundamentals remain, but global uncertainty and weak investor mood have limited gains. Market returns are being led by only a few stocks.

The Centre on Friday approved long-pending wage revisions for public sector general insurance companies and NABARD, along with pension revisions for RBI and NABARD retirees. Around 46,000 employees and over 46,000 pensioners and family pensioners will benefit. PSGIC wages will rise by 12.41 per cent from August 1, 2022, including higher basic pay. The move also raises NPS contributions and revises family pensions, with a total cost of Rs 8,170 crore.

Budget 2026 sees higher taxes, capex with fiscal

A new report outlines revenue growth, spending priorities and fiscal discipline ahead of Budget 2026

NEW DELHI

India's gross tax revenue is projected to rise by 9.6% in FY27, slightly below the expected nominal GDP growth of 10.1 per cent. CareEdge Ratings said direct tax collections are likely to improve as income and corporate tax receipts recover gradually during the year.

The report added that government capital expenditure is expected to grow 10 per cent to Rs 12.3 trillion in FY27, supporting infrastructure creation and long-term economic growth.

The fiscal deficit is projected to be budgeted between 4.2–4.3 per cent in the same year, showing continued focus on fiscal discipline. Gross market borrowing is expected to remain high, ranging between Rs 16 and 17 trillion in FY27, while net borrowing may stand at around Rs 11.5 to 12 trillion.

Although GST rate rationalisation could affect collections, the report noted that GST revenues should still show gradual improvement as economic activity strengthens. Non-tax revenues have remained strong this year due to a higher dividend transfer from the Reserve Bank of India, pushing non-tax receipts up sharply. The RBI dividend is expected to stay elevated at Rs 2 to 2.5 trillion in FY27, compared with Rs 2.7 trillion estimated for FY26.

The agency also warned that non-debt capital receipts could fall short by about Rs 0.2 trillion in FY26. An increase in excise duty on tobacco products, effective February 1, 2026, is expected to support excise duty growth in the coming year. Another report said Budget 2026 will stress fiscal prudence while prioritising defence.

GUWAHATI

Assam Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma on Friday announced that the state will set up a Centre of Excellence in collaboration with the World Economic Forum, marking a major step in global engagement.

The decision was taken during meetings with the WEF leadership on the sidelines of the annual Davos summit. The proposed centre will focus on a theme of national and state importance, linking Assam's development goals with global best practices and new economic trends.

Sarma said the initiative will allow Assam to tap international knowledge networks and expert policy support. He added that the state is building a long term partnership with the WEF, enabling regular participation in its global platforms and discussions. This engagement is expected to give Assam higher visibility among global investors, policymakers and business leaders.

During his interactions, the Chief Minister said Assam follows a focused and inclusive investment strategy. He stressed that every investor is treated as a VIP and receives personal attention, regardless of project size.

Key points

- Centre of Excellence with WEF
- Global knowledge & policy networks
- Focus on investment & infrastructure
- Taps hydrocarbons & renewable energy

Highlighting the Northeast's rising economic role, Sarma said the region is seeing fast infrastructure growth, shown by higher cement use and industrial activity. He pointed to strong potential in hydrocarbons, renewable energy, tourism and agriculture based industries, the Centre of Excellence will help Assam design forward looking policies, attract quality investments and connect better with global value chains.

He said the state's presence at Davos aims to build real partnerships that create jobs, strengthen infrastructure and ensure long term economic stability. Officials believe the initiative will also support skill development, innovation, research collaboration and balanced regional growth across Assam in coming years through public and private partnerships.

ODOP transforms local products into global brands

NEW DELHI

The Centre's One District-One Product initiative has expanded to more than 770 districts by December 2025, turning many areas into growing economic hubs. According to an official statement issued on Friday, the scheme helps local farmers, artisans and small producers make goods for national and international markets. Each district identifies one unique product and receives branding support, market access, training and institutional backing. These products are now displayed at global trade fairs, giving traditional skills wider recognition.

More than 1,200 products from textiles, food items, handicrafts and minerals are listed on the digital portal of the Department for Promotion of Industry and Internal Trade. Market links have expanded through ODOP stores on the Government e-Marketplace and state e-commerce platforms. The scheme follows a flexible but structured model, led jointly by central ministries, state governments and district administrations. States select products based on local strengths and inform DPIIT.

Through platforms like the GeM-ODOP Bazaar, artisans are reaching wider buyers. The scheme offers Rs 5,000 crore in interest-free support, with at least Rs 100 crore for each state. Unity Malls are also being built, with 29 approved across 27 states. The initiative began in 2018 in Moradabad, Uttar Pradesh, famous for brassware, and later expanded nationwide.

Uttar Pradesh, the first state to adopt ODOP, has seen exports rise sharply. Exports grew 76 per cent from Rs 88,967 crore in 2017-18 to Rs 1.71 lakh crore in 2023-24. Projects worth Rs 6,000 crore were approved, and over 1.25 crore artisans received training and modern tools.

At the Uttar Pradesh International Trade Show 2025, ODOP stalls generated strong interest, business leads and deals worth Rs 20.77 crore, highlighting the scheme's national and global impact and future growth prospects.

'Less than 15% of TSMC processes in US by 2029'

TAIPEI

Experts say less than 15 per cent of Taiwan Semiconductor Manufacturing Company's advanced chip making processes will shift to the United States by 2029. This view was shared by economist Lien Hsien-ming after comments by US Commerce Secretary Howard Lutnick, who said Washington wants to move 40 per cent of Taiwan's supply chain to America before President Donald Trump's second term ends.

TSMC is investing 65 billion dollars in three factories in Arizona. The first plant began commercial production in late 2024. The company has also pledged another 100 billion dollars for three more factories, two assembly units and a research centre. Lien said equipment installation has started at the second Arizona factory, which is expected to begin mass production in 2027. Construction of the third factory began earlier this year, and TSMC has applied for permission to build a fourth plant.

Based on production plans and total output, Lien estimated that under 15 per cent of TSMC's advanced processes will be based in the US by 2029. He added that pressure on TSMC could reduce if companies like Intel, Micron and Samsung succeed with their American projects.

The report also noted a US Taiwan agreement to cut tariffs on Taiwanese goods to 15 per cent. The deal includes 250 billion dollars in Taiwanese investment, with government credit support.

French Galette now sells out daily at Roast CCx

HYDERABAD

At Roast CCx, a French pastry has quietly become a daily sell-out, driven by skill, consistency, and technique rather than marketing. The traditional Galette, crafted by Corporate Pastry Chef Joakim Prat, a veteran of Michelin-starred kitchens across Europe, has steadily won over Hyderabad's diners.

When first introduced, the Galette was not promoted as a signature item but allowed to find its audience naturally. Over weeks, customers discovered its crisp, buttery layers and delicate sweetness, boosting demand. Today, it is one of Roast CCx's most sought-after offerings, selling out daily.

The Galette reflects classical French pastry discipline, with precise lamination, high-quality butter, and controlled sweetness. Chef Joakim's Michelin-trained approach emphasizes consistency, restraint, and respect for fundamentals, which now shapes Roast CCx's pastry program and kitchen training standards.

Mr. Bhanu, Restaurant Manager, said, "The Galette rewards patience. It wasn't designed to be a trend. It was designed to be correct, and guests responded over time." The pastry's rise also highlights Hyderabad diners' growing appreciation for technique-driven, globally inspired desserts over novelty-led items. Building on this success, Chef Joakim is preparing to introduce an expanded bakery and pastry range at Roast CCx in the coming weeks.

Founded in 2019, Roast CCx has grown from a boutique coffee shop to a multi-outlet cafe brand worth over ₹250 crore. Its flagship in Banjara Hills features India's first Loring S70 Peregrine air-roasting system, a 15,000 sq. ft. pastry lab, a private theatre, and a coffee education studio.

Precious metals surge as Dollar slides, ME tensions rise

NEW DELHI

Gold and silver prices soared to record highs on Friday, driven by a weaker US dollar and rising tensions in the Middle East. Fresh warnings of potential US military action against Iran added to investor caution, pushing safe-haven demand.

On the domestic MCX exchange, gold February futures rose 1.23 per cent to Rs 1,58,261 per 10 grams by 11.25 am. Silver March futures surged 2.63 per cent to Rs 3,35,900 per kg. Globally, gold touched a lifetime high of $4,967 before trading near $4,951, while silver reached $98.92 on the COMEX before consolidating around $98.30–$98.70. Analysts said previous gold resistance at $4,900–$4,940 has now become support, bolstering a positive outlook.

Geopolitical concerns shaped sentiment further. US President Donald Trump said an American "armada," including the USS Abraham Lincoln and destroyers, is moving toward Iran, while warning Tehran against reviving its nuclear programme. Hints of European countries reducing US Treasury exposure also added to safe-haven demand.

Technical analysts expect gold support between Rs 1,54,650–Rs 1,52,310 and resistance at Rs 1,58,850–Rs 1,60,150. For silver, support lies at Rs 3,20,810–Rs 3,10,170, with resistance between Rs 3,31,810–Rs 3,37,470.

A report by Motilal Oswal noted silver's extraordinary 200 per cent rally over the past year, outpacing gold's 80 per cent rise. The steep climb from around Rs 60,000 to Rs 3,20,000 may trigger consolidation at higher levels, as investors reassess positions.

JioBlackRock launches rotation equity fund

NEW DELHI

JioBlackRock Asset Management on Friday announced the launch of the JioBlackRock Sector Rotation Fund, an equity scheme powered by artificial intelligence.

The fund uses BlackRock's Systematic Active Equities approach to rotate investments across sectors based on changing market conditions. It is the latest offering from the 50:50 joint venture between Jio Financial Services and BlackRock.

According to the company, the fund aims to complement core equity investments by focusing on sector-level opportunities instead of picking individual stocks. Unlike flexicap funds, which rely on bottom-up stock selection, this scheme adjusts sector exposure as economic trends evolve. The new fund offer will open on January 27, 2026, and close on February 9, 2026.

The investment framework uses quantitative models and AI tools to analyse market, macroeconomic and earnings signals. It converts large data sets, including social media trends and job data, into usable investment insights. This method reduces human bias and allows consistent, repeatable decisions.

The fund follows a risk-controlled and benchmark-aware strategy, aiming to outperform the Nifty 500 Index. Chief Investment Officer Rishi Kohli said sector leadership often changes due to shifts in technology, consumption patterns, geopolitics and global supply chains.

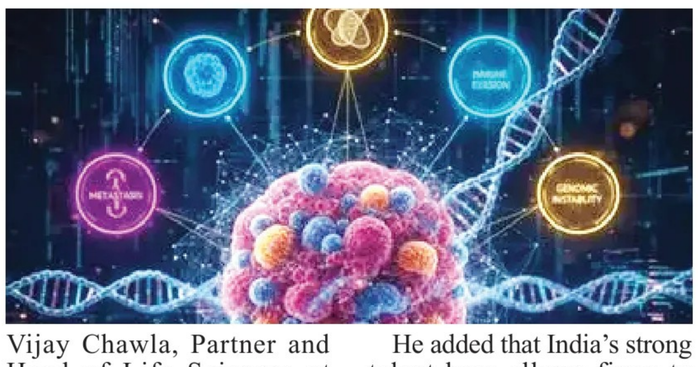
AI SHIFT

Indian life sciences firms accelerate AI adoption

NEW DELHI

India's life sciences sector is rapidly adopting artificial intelligence and digital tools. The study, prepared by KPMG, shows that industry leaders are moving beyond trials and are now using technology to improve growth, efficiency and innovation.

Based on a survey of 110 global life sciences leaders, the report said Indian chief executives are also investing in skills development, helping the sector move toward long-term and sustainable growth.



Vijay Chawla, Partner and Head of Life Sciences at KPMG in India, said companies are scaling AI, reshaping operations and making clear investment choices.

He added that India's strong talent base allows firms to combine innovation with cost efficiency, improving their global position. Globally, more than 80% of life sciences CEOs believe AI is vital for growth, lower emissions and better energy use. The report noted that leaders are focusing on full execution, strategic mergers and acquisitions, and workforce changes. About 86% expect deal-making activity to continue, while many are adjusting plans to manage market risks.

Around 73% plan to spend up to one-fifth of technology budgets on AI. Cybersecurity remains a concern, but CEOs are prioritising talent, ESG goals, sustainability and measurable returns in coming years, the report added.

Industry experts say this shift will strengthen healthcare delivery, research, manufacturing quality and global competitiveness, while supporting cleaner operations, skilled jobs and long-term value creation across India's expanding life sciences ecosystem over the next decade. Analysts believe policy support, data security, training programmes and AI governance will be key to maintaining momentum and trust among patients, partners and investors nationwide.

JPMorgan shares soar, CEO Dimon's salary reaches US$43 mn

NEW YORK

JPMorgan Chase CEO Jamie Dimon earned a total of $43 million in 2025, marking a 10% increase from the previous year, according to a regulatory filing. His package included a $1.5 million base salary and $41.5 million in performance-based incentives, reflecting strong leadership and the bank's solid financial results. JPMorgan highlighted Dimon's role in maintaining a "fortress balance sheet" and aligning pay with performance across its businesses.

Dimon has led JPMorgan since 2006 and is seen as a key figure connecting Wall Street with Washington and global markets. The board praised his leadership, focus on developing top executives, and dedication to serving shareholders.

The pay disclosure came just hours after former President Donald Trump filed a $5 billion lawsuit against JPMorgan and Dimon, claiming the bank "debanked" him for political reasons after the January 6, 2021, Capitol events.

JPMorgan, valued at approximately $830 billion, saw its shares rise 0.4% in New York trading on Thursday.

The Oil War Around the World

For over a century, oil has been the lifeblood of modern civilization, powering everything from automobiles to entire economies. This black gold has shaped international relations, sparked conflicts, and determined the rise and fall of nations. The struggle for control over oil resources, often termed the oil war, represents one of the most enduring and consequential competitions in modern history. This invisible yet ever-present conflict continues to reshape geopolitics, influence military interventions, and drive economic strategies across every continent.

The Historical Foundation of Oil Conflicts

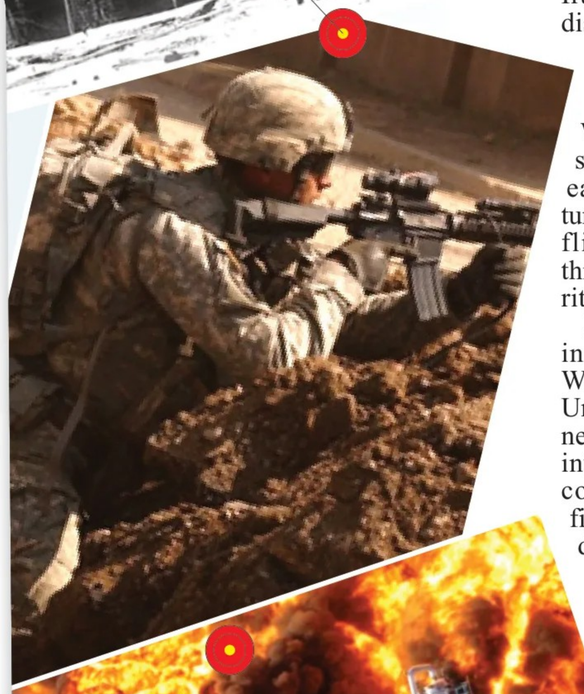
The oil war began in earnest in the early 20th century when industrialized nations recognized petroleum's strategic importance. The transition from coal to oil for naval vessels before World War I marked a turning point, transforming oil from a commodity into a matter of national security. Winston Churchill's decision to convert the British Royal Navy to oil power in 1911 exemplified this shift, creating an immediate dependence on foreign oil supplies, particularly from Persia.

The aftermath of World War I saw the first major international scramble for oil resources. The dissolution of the Ottoman Empire led to the carving up of the Middle East by European powers, with oil considerations playing a central role in drawing new borders. The Sykes-Picot Agreement and subsequent treaties reflected British and French interests in securing access to Mesopotamian oil fields, setting precedents for foreign intervention that would echo throughout the century.

The Seven Sisters, a consortium of Western oil companies, dominated global oil production and distribution throughout much of the 20th century. These corporations wielded enormous power, often operating with the backing of their home governments to secure favorable concessions from oil-producing nations. This arrangement created deep resentments that would later fuel nationalist movements and contribute to the geopolitical tensions we see today.

OPEC and the Shift in Power Dynamics

The formation of the Organization of the Petroleum Exporting Countries in 1960 marked a watershed moment in the oil war. Venezuela, Saudi Arabia, Iran, Iraq, and Kuwait founded OPEC to coordinate petroleum policies and secure fair prices for their resources. This represented a fundamental challenge to Western corporate dominance and the beginning of a power shift from oil consumers to oil producers. The 1973 oil embargo demonstrated OPEC's newfound leverage. In response to Western support for Israel during the Yom Kippur War, Arab members of OPEC imposed an oil embargo on the United States and other nations. Oil prices quadrupled, triggering economic crises across the developed world and revealing the vulnerability of oil-dependent economies. The embargo transformed oil into an explicit weapon of economic warfare, proving that control over production could be as powerful as military might. This period witnessed the rise of petrostates, nations whose economies and political systems became fundamentally structured around oil exports. Countries like Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, and the United Arab Emirates accumulated vast wealth and international influence. However, this also created what economists call the resource curse, where oil wealth led to corruption, economic distortion.



CONCLUSION: An Evolving Conflict

The oil war around the world remains far from resolved. While the nature of the conflict evolves, competition for energy resources continues to shape international relations, drive military strategies, and determine economic fates. The rise of renewable energy introduces new dimensions to this competition rather than ending it, as nations now compete for dominance in green technologies and critical minerals needed for batteries and solar panels. The legacy of the oil war includes environmental degradation, regional instability, and economic inequality. Yet oil also powered unprecedented technological advancement and raised living standards for billions of people. As the world navigates the energy transition, understanding the oil war's history and dynamics remains essential for making informed decisions about our energy future. The coming decades will determine whether humanity can manage a transition away from fossil fuels without triggering new conflicts over resources and economic opportunities. The oil war may eventually become history, but the patterns of competition, alliance, and conflict it established will likely persist in new forms.

The Persian Gulf: The Epicenter of Oil Conflicts

The Persian Gulf region contains approximately 48 percent of the world's proven oil reserves, making it the focal point of international oil competition. The Iranian Revolution of 1979 disrupted global oil markets and introduced religious ideology into oil politics. The subsequent Iran-Iraq War from 1980 to 1988 saw both nations targeting each other's oil infrastructure, demonstrating how conflicts in the region could threaten global energy security.

Iraq's invasion of Kuwait in 1990 triggered the Gulf War, explicitly framed by the United States and its allies as necessary to protect vital oil interests. Saddam Hussein's control over Kuwait's oil fields would have given Iraq dominance over a significant portion of global reserves, threatening the economic interests of major powers. The swift military response underscored how oil considerations could override other diplomatic considerations and justify large-scale military intervention. The 2003 invasion of Iraq by the United States and coalition forces remains one of the most controversial episodes in the modern oil war. While officially justified on grounds of weapons of mass destruction and terrorism.

Russia's Energy Dominance Strategy

Russia has leveraged its vast oil and natural gas reserves as instruments of geopolitical power, particularly in its relations with Europe. As one of the world's largest oil producers and the dominant supplier of natural gas to European nations, Russia has used energy exports as both an economic engine and a political weapon. The conflicts in Ukraine, particularly Russia's annexation of Crimea in 2014 and the full-scale invasion in 2022, have energy dimensions that cannot be ignored. and control over Ukraine's territory affects Russia's ability to project energy power. The subsequent Western sanctions on Russian oil and the European Union's efforts to reduce dependence on Russian energy have reshaped global oil flows and accelerated transitions toward alternative energy sources.

The formation of OPEC+ represents a new phase in the oil war, where traditional OPEC members coordinate with major non-OPEC producers to manage global supply.

Venezuela's Resource Curse

Venezuela possesses the world's largest proven oil reserves, yet the nation has experienced economic collapse and humanitarian crisis. The story of Venezuela illustrates how oil wealth can become a curse when coupled with mismanagement, corruption, and over-dependence on a single commodity.

Under Hugo Chávez and his successor Nicolás Maduro, Venezuela nationalized oil production and used revenues for social programs and political patronage. However, underinvestment in infrastructure, technical expertise drain, and economic sanctions devastated production capacity. What was once one of the world's most prosperous Latin American nations descended into hyperinflation and mass emigration.

The international response to Venezuela's crisis reveals the oil war's complexity. The United States imposed sanctions aimed at pressuring the Maduro government, while China and Russia provided financial support in exchange for oil supply agreements. This created a situation where Venezuela's oil resources became pawns in a larger geopolitical competition between global powers, with the Venezuelan people bearing the consequences.

The Shale Revolution and American Energy Independence

The development of hydraulic fracturing and horizontal drilling technologies triggered a revolution in American oil production. The shale boom transformed the United States from a major oil importer to one of the world's leading producers, fundamentally altering global oil dynamics.

American energy independence reduced vulnerability to Middle Eastern supply disruptions and provided greater flexibility in foreign policy. The United States could afford to be more selective in its engagements in oil-producing regions, though its interests in maintaining global oil market stability remained. The shale revolution also challenged OPEC's pricing power, as American producers could respond more quickly to price signals than traditional producers.

However, shale oil production carries environmental concerns, including water contamination risks, methane emissions, and seismic activity. The industry's boom-and-bust cycles, driven by volatile oil prices, also created economic instability in producing regions. The tension between energy security, economic interests, and environmental protection became increasingly central to debates about energy policy.

China's Quest for Energy Security

China's rapid industrialization and economic growth made it the world's largest energy consumer and a major oil importer. This dependence created strategic vulnerabilities that Chinese policymakers sought to address through multiple approaches.

China's Belt and Road Initiative includes significant energy infrastructure investments across Asia, Africa, and the Middle East. By financing pipelines, ports, and refineries, China secures long-term supply agreements and builds influence in oil-producing nations. Chinese state-owned companies have acquired stakes in oil fields from Kazakhstan to Venezuela, diversifying supply sources and reducing dependence on any single region. The Strait of Malacca, through which most of China's oil imports pass, represents a strategic chokepoint that could be blockaded in a conflict. This vulnerability drives Chinese naval expansion and efforts to develop alternative supply routes, including pipelines through Central Asia and Myanmar. China's South China Sea territorial claims also relate partly to potential offshore oil and gas resources, adding an energy dimension to regional maritime disputes.

Climate Change and the Future of the Oil War

The growing recognition of climate change as an existential threat has introduced a new dimension to the oil war. The transition toward renewable energy sources threatens the economic models of oil-producing nations and challenges the geopolitical structures built around fossil fuels.

Major oil companies face pressure from investors, governments, and public opinion to reduce carbon emissions and invest in clean energy. Some nations, particularly in Europe, have set ambitious targets for phasing out fossil fuels. This creates tension between the immediate economic interests of oil producers and the long-term survival imperatives driven by climate science.

However, the transition away from oil will not be smooth or uniform. Developing nations argue that they should not be denied the same development opportunities that fossil fuels provided to industrialized countries. Oil-producing nations face the prospect of stranded assets and economic disruption if global demand declines before they can diversify their economies. This creates incentives to maximize oil revenues while markets still exist.

- Russia uses oil gas exports as geopolitical leverage over Europe.
- Ukraine conflicts reshape energy power balances sanctions alter oil flows.
- OPEC+ alliance coordinates supply reshaping traditional oil market power dynamics.
- Venezuela's oil wealth turned curse through mismanagement corruption sanctions collapse.
- US shale revolution boosts production challenges OPEC and strengthens independence.
- Shale boom brings environmental risks price volatility regional economic instability.
- China secures energy via Belt Road investments diversification routes globally.
- Climate change pushes energy transition threatens oil states geopolitical order.

Dani Olmo emerges as Hansi Flick's key attacking weapon at Barcelona

Versatile playmaker gives Flick tactical freedom across Barcelona's attack

BARCELONA

Dani Olmo has quietly established himself as one of Barcelona's most important players this season, not merely through goals and assists, but through the tactical flexibility and balance he brings to Hansi Flick's attacking setup.

Often described as the "Eric Garcia of attack," Olmo mirrors the defender's adaptability by thriving in multiple roles without compromising performance. Just as Garcia can slot in across the back line or midfield, Olmo offers Flick rare versatility in the final third. Whether deployed on either wing, as a central attacking midfielder or even as a false nine, the 25-year-old consistently elevates Barcelona's attacking rhythm.

At his core, Olmo remains a natural playmaker. He excels between the lines, links midfield and attack seamlessly, and is constantly involved in dangerous phases of play. In Flick's preferred system, Olmo frequently operates as a No. 10, acting as the creative connector who dictates tempo and exploits pockets of space.

Competition for that role exists, with Fermin Lopez pushing strongly and Raphinha also used centrally in certain fixtures. However, Olmo's forward-thinking instincts set him apart. He is at his most dangerous when given freedom to attack the box, while his technical security ensures the team's structure remains intact.

Statistically, playing as a pure midfielder has been Olmo's least common role across his career.

Since returning to Barcelona, he has started 13 matches from midfield, contributing three goals and three assists. His ability to adapt has also seen Flick deploy him as a false nine, a move that strengthens midfield control without dulling Barcelona's attacking edge.

The role is familiar territory for Olmo, who played as a centre forward in Barcelona's youth ranks and has featured 13 times there in professional football. Additionally, his experience as a winger — 52 matches with 15 goals and 15 assists — further underlines his value.

Gibbs-White fails from the spot as Forest pay for errors in Braga

BRAGA

Nottingham Forest's long-awaited return to European football ended in frustration as a catalogue of errors condemned them to a narrow defeat against Braga at the Estádio Municipal de Braga.

Gibbs-White penalty miss and Yates own goal doom Forest in Braga defeat.

Forest, making their first continental appearance in almost three decades, struggled to match the occasion. The decisive moment arrived shortly after the restart when Morgan Gibbs-White failed to convert a penalty, only for captain Ryan Yates to divert the ball into his own net moments later in a damaging sequence that summed up the visitors' night.

After a scrappy first half lacking fluency, Forest were handed a golden opportunity five minutes into the second period. James McAtee went down under pressure in the box and, following a lengthy VAR check, the referee pointed to the spot. Gibbs-White's delayed attempt, however, lacked power and conviction, allowing Braga goalkeeper Lukas Hornicek to dive low and save comfortably.

Braga immediately capitalised. Within a minute, Ricardo Horta broke down the left and squared the ball across goal, where Yates, sliding back in desperation, inadvertently turned it past Matz Sels. The own goal proved decisive despite Forest registering five shots on target to Braga's none.

Sean Dyche's side looked short of ideas going forward, a problem compounded by the absence of an orthodox striker. With injuries and eligibility issues ruling out key forwards, winger Dan Ndoye led the line, but Forest's attacking play lacked sharpness and cohesion.

Tempers flared late on when substitute Elliot Anderson was shown a straight red card for dissent in stoppage time, further angering the 2,100 travelling supporters, who voiced their displeasure at full-time.

After drawing with Premier League leaders Arsenal last weekend, this defeat marked a sobering setback for Forest, who now have just one win in their last eight matches across all competitions. The sense of occasion was unmistakable, but so too was the work still required if Forest are to make their European return a memorable one for the right reasons.

Soorma fall short despite 6-1 win as HIL playoffs loom

BHUBANESWAR

JSW Soorma Hockey Club ended their Hockey India League league stage with a convincing 6-1 win over SG Pipers but fell short of the seven-goal margin required to advance to Qualifier 2. Despite a dominant display, the dying minutes saw Pipers hold firm, denying Soorma a place in the playoffs.

Soorma started with intensity, as Jeremy Hayward scored four times (2', 7', 34', 45') via powerful drag flicks. Lucas Martinez added a counter-attacking strike in the 11th minute, while Nicolas Keenan completed the tally in the 47th. Tomas Domene netted a consolation goal for the Pipers, leaving Soorma just shy of their playoff target. A seven-goal victory would have allowed them to leapfrog HIL GC into the next stage based on goal difference. With Soorma out, the focus now shifts to Qualifier 1 and the eliminator at the iconic Kalinga Hockey Stadium on Friday.

Manchester City superstar playing his way out of Real Madrid move

MADRID

Real Madrid may be reconsidering their long-standing interest in Manchester City midfielder Rodri as the Spanish international endures a worrying downturn in form during a turbulent spell for Pep Guardiola's side.

Los Blancos enjoyed their best night of the season, hammering Monaco 6-1 at the Santiago Bernabeu in the Champions League under caretaker manager Álvaro Arbeloa. While Madrid surged, City faltered badly, suffering a shock 3-1 defeat to Norwegian side Bodo/Glimt in Europe, days after losing the Manchester derby to United.

Rodri's return from a hamstring injury in January was expected to steady City's midfield and reignite their title challenge. Instead, his comeback has coincided with a dramatic slump. Since re-entering Guardiola's starting XI, City have failed to win a Premier League match, drawing against Sunderland, Chelsea and Brighton before the damaging European loss in Norway.

The defeat to Bodo/Glimt proved particularly costly for Rodri. After City clawed a goal back, the 29-year-old was sent off, leaving his side exposed and reinforcing concerns about his declining influence. Injuries in recent seasons appear to have taken a toll, raising questions over whether the Ballon d'Or winner is past his peak.

Real Madrid have been loosely linked with Rodri amid speculation over Guardiola's future at the Etihad and the midfielder's contract, which runs until 2027. However, his recent performances suggest such a move would be a significant gamble, both financially and tactically.

Florentino Pérez is now likely to explore alternative midfield reinforcements. Crystal Palace's Adam Wharton and AZ Alkmaar's Kees Smit are both admired at the Bernabeu, while bigger names such as Chelsea's Moisés Caicedo remain long-shot options. For a more economical solution, VfB Stuttgart's Angelo Stiller also fits Madrid's evolving profile.

Casemiro to depart Manchester United at season's end

MANCHESTER : Manchester United confirmed that midfielder Casemiro will leave the club at the end of the 2025–26 season upon the expiry of his contract.

The 33-year-old Brazilian had a one-year extension option, but the club has chosen not to activate it as part of a broader squad overhaul. Casemiro had requested that his summer departure be announced in advance.

"I will carry Manchester United with me throughout my entire life," Casemiro said. "From the first day that I walked out at this beautiful stadium, I felt the passion of Old Trafford and the love that I now share with our supporters of this special club."

Casemiro arrived at Old Trafford in August 2022 from Real Madrid for around £60 million ($80.9 million). During his four years at United, he became a midfield anchor, scoring 21 goals in 146 appearances and helping the club secure the 2023 League Cup—scoring a decisive header in the 2-0 final win over Newcastle United—and the 2024 FA Cup.

The midfielder added, "It's not time to say goodbye; there are many more memories to create during the next four months. We still have a lot to fight for together; my complete focus will, as always, remain on giving my everything to help our club succeed."

United are currently fifth in the Premier League, 15 points behind leaders Arsenal ahead of their Emirates Stadium clash on Sunday. The team is buoyed by a 2-0 derby victory over Manchester City, the first game under caretaker manager Michael Carrick following the sacking of Ruben Amorim.

Casemiro posted an emotional farewell on social media, sharing a montage of his time with the club.

NEW DELHI

Tilottama Sen continued her remarkable run at the National Selection Trials 1&2 Group A, claiming the top spot in the 10m Air Rifle Women (ARW) event at the Karni Singh Shooting Range. Australian Open schedule shifted earlier as 40C heat forecast hits Melbourne

MELBOURNE

The Australian Open will kick off earlier than usual today, January 24, as Melbourne faces scorching temperatures of up to 40C, forcing organizers to adjust the schedule to protect players and spectators. Play on the main arenas will now begin at 10:30 a.m., earlier than the standard 11:00–11:30 a.m., while other courts will start as early as 10:00 a.m. Tournament director Craig Tiley said the decision aims to take advantage of cooler morning conditions. "We expect pleasant conditions tomorrow morning, in the mid-20s, and will start play earlier to avoid the peak heat," he said, urging fans to take precautions against sun exposure and dehydration.

Top players, including Novak Djokovic, reigning champions Jannik Sinner and Madison Keys, are scheduled to compete on Saturday. While temperatures are expected to peak in the late afternoon, conditions should return to more typical levels on Sunday before spiking again to 43C on Tuesday.

Three-time runner-up Daniil Medvedev, who does not play on Saturday, expressed concerns about the extreme weather affecting practice. "Worst case, if it's too hot, we can always go indoors. I would prefer outdoors," he said. "It's going to be interesting to watch on TV. Let's see how the guys cope. Hopefully no heat stroke."

The Australian Open rules allow the tournament referee to suspend play or order additional cooling breaks during extreme weather. Courts with retractable roofs, including Rod Laver Arena, may have their covers closed if conditions worsen.

India hopes T20 World Cup will boost global sporting stature, but controversy threatens image

T20 World Cup row clouds India's Olympic ambitions

NEW DELHI

India's ambition to project itself as a global sporting powerhouse and future Olympic host has been overshadowed by a growing controversy around next month's T20 Cricket World Cup, triggered by a diplomatic row with Bangladesh and allegations of political interference in the sport.

With less than two weeks to go for the tournament's February 7 start, Bangladesh are on the brink of missing the World Cup after the International Cricket Council (ICC) rejected their request to shift matches from India to co-host Sri Lanka, citing the absence of any credible security threat. Bangladesh Cricket Board president Aminul Islam Bulbul said the team would not travel to India unless the venue was changed.

India sees the T20 World Cup as a showcase event ahead of its bids to host the 2030 Commonwealth Games in Ahmedabad and the 2036 Olympic Games. However, the delayed release of the World Cup schedule and the uncertainty surrounding Bangladesh's participation have raised concerns over organisational credibility, especially with cricket set to return to the Olympics at Los Angeles 2028.

Bulbul warned that excluding Bangladesh — a cricket-mad nation of nearly 200 million people — would hurt the ICC and the sport's global reach. The ICC, however, said it remained committed to safeguarding the collective interests of world cricket.

Critics argue that India's dominance within global cricket governance has complicated the issue. South Asia accounts for nearly 90 percent of cricket's global fan base, with India generating the bulk of the game's revenues through the financially powerful Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI).

The controversy has also taken on political overtones amid strained India-Bangladesh relations following political upheaval in Dhaka in 2024. Tensions escalated after Bangladeshi fast bowler Mustafizur Rahman was dropped from the IPL's Kolkata Knight Riders, sparking anger in Bangladesh.

Sports commentators say the episode highlights how deeply politics has become entwined with cricket administration. As preparations continue, the unfolding row threatens to dent India's carefully cultivated image as a reliable host for major global sporting events.

Rickelton, Stubbs drafted in as injury replacements for SA's T20 WC squad

JOHANNESBURG

Ryan Rickelton and Tristan Stubbs have been named as replacements for the injured Tony de Zorzi and Donovan Ferreira in South Africa's squad for next month's ICC Men's T20 World Cup, Cricket South Africa (CSA) confirmed.

De Zorzi has been ruled out after failing to recover in time from a right hamstring muscle tear sustained during South Africa's tour of India late last year. Ferreira, meanwhile, suffered a fracture of his left clavicle while playing in the ongoing SA20 league. Both players will also miss the Proteas' upcoming three-match home T20I series against the West Indies.

CSA said De Zorzi's rehabilitation had not progressed as expected, making his return for the T20I series and the World Cup unlikely. "Due to his unavailability for the series and the need for continued rehabilitation, he will miss the T20 World Cup," the board said in a statement posted on X.

Ferreira was injured during the SA20 match between Joburg Super Kings and Pretoria Capitals on January 17, further depleting South Africa's middle-order options ahead of the global tournament.

Rickelton, a left-handed batter, and power-hitter Stubbs have been included in the revised 15-player World Cup squad as like-for-like replacements. Both players have impressed in domestic and franchise cricket and are expected to add depth to South Africa's batting lineup.

The runners-up of the previous T20 World Cup are also monitoring the fitness of senior batter David Miller. Miller has been ruled out of the SA20 knockout matches after suffering an adductor muscle injury while representing Paarl Royals on January 19.

CSA confirmed that Rubin Hermann has been named as Miller's replacement for the T20I series against the West Indies. However, Miller's availability for the T20 World Cup will depend on the outcome of a fitness assessment closer to the tournament.

With injuries mounting, South Africa face a race against time to finalise a fully fit squad ahead of the marquee event.

Adar Poonawalla confirms strong interest in buying RCB, plans competitive bid

BENGALURU

Business tycoon and Serum Institute of India chief Adar Poonawalla has confirmed his interest in acquiring Indian Premier League (IPL) franchise Royal Challengers Bengaluru (RCB), stating that he plans to place a "strong and competitive bid" in the coming months.

Poonawalla ended weeks of speculation after posting a clear statement on X, following an earlier cryptic message that had fuelled rumours about his intentions. "Over the next few months, will be putting in a STRONG and COMPETITIVE bid for @RCBTweets, one of the best teams in the IPL," he wrote, making his interest public.

Talk of a possible sale of RCB first surfaced in June 2025, shortly after the franchise won its maiden IPL title, ending a 17-year wait. However, celebrations were marred by a tragic stampede outside the M Chinnaswamy Stadium in Bengaluru that claimed 12 lives, casting a shadow over the historic triumph. Former IPL chairman Lalit Modi later claimed that current owners Diageo Plc could be open to offloading the franchise. RCB's valuation surged following their title win, reportedly reaching around $269 million, helping them overtake Chennai Super Kings as the league's most valuable team.

With Virat Kohli as the long-standing face of the franchise, RCB remains one of the IPL's most high-profile and commercially attractive teams, boasting a massive fan base across the country.

RCB was originally owned by Vijay Mallya from the league's inception before Diageo acquired the franchise in 2016. While no official confirmation has come from Diageo regarding a sale, Poonawalla's public declaration has added momentum to the speculation.

Meanwhile, uncertainty continues over RCB's home venue for the upcoming season, starting March 26, with debates ongoing about a return to the Chinnaswamy Stadium despite appeals from Karnataka State Cricket Association officials.

Poonawalla's potential entry could mark a significant shift in IPL franchise ownership dynamics.

Young opener credits Rohit, Gambhir for fearless powerplay mindset and consistency

'I'm following Rohit Sharma's footsteps,' says ABHISHEK

NEW DELHI

India's swashbuckling opener Abhishek Sharma on Friday said he has modelled his aggressive T20I approach on the template set by former captain Rohit Sharma, a style he believes has helped him thrive at the international level.

Since making his T20I debut in July 2024, Abhishek's fearless batting in the powerplay has propelled him to the top of the ICC T20I batting rankings. In 34 matches so far, the 25-year-old has smashed two centuries and seven half-centuries, scoring 1,199 runs at a staggering strike rate of 190.92.

Abhishek acknowledged Rohit's influence on his game, particularly during the first six overs. "Rohit bhai has done a lot for the country. There was always pressure because of the starts he used to give in the powerplay," he said. "When I came into the team, the coach and captain wanted the same from me. I felt it suited my style because I love to attack from the first few balls."

Abhishek credited head coach Gautam Gambhir and captain Suryakumar Yadav for giving him clear role definition. "I wouldn't say I am fully mature yet, because there is always room to improve. But I know my job is to play aggressive cricket in the first six overs and set the tone for the team," he said.

With the T20 World Cup just a fortnight away, Abhishek said his preparations have been highly specific. He revealed that he focuses on practicing against bowlers who replicate the styles he expects to face during matches, including variations in swing and pace-off deliveries.

"I try to recreate match situations in the nets.

Inconsistent SABALENKA battles past Potapova to reach Aus Open fourth round

MELBOURNE

Top seed Aryna Sabalenka overcame patches of erratic play and stern resistance from Anastasia Potapova to advance to the fourth round of the Australian Open with a hard-fought 7-6 (4), 7-6 (7) victory on Friday.

Chasing her third title in four years at Melbourne Park, Sabalenka was tested throughout the third-round encounter, needing composure in key moments to prevail. The Belarusian, who won the Australian Open in 2023 and 2024 and finished runner-up last year to Madison Keys, showed resilience despite struggling to maintain consistency.

Sabalenka appeared in control late in the opening set when she led 6-5 and 40-0 on serve. However, Potapova saved all three set points to force a tiebreaker. Sabalenka surged to a 3-0 lead in the breaker before Potapova clawed her way back to level terms. The world No. 1 eventually sealed the set with a crisp backhand winner down the line off Potapova's second serve.

The second set followed a similar pattern of momentum swings. Potapova fell behind 4-0 but mounted an impressive comeback to draw level at 4-4, again pushing the set into a tiebreaker. The Russian-born Austrian had three set points in the breaker, only for Sabalenka to dig deep and close out the match under pressure.

"She played incredible tennis," Sabalenka said in her on-court interview. "I was always on the back foot. There are days when you just have to fight, and it was such a fight today."

Elsewhere in the women's draw, 17th-seeded Victoria Mboko advanced with a 7-6 (5), 5-7, 6-3 win over 14th seed Clara Tauson.

On the men's side, Daniil Medvedev rallied from two sets down to defeat Fabian Marozsan, while Tommy Paul progressed after Alejandro Davidovich retired. American youngster Learner Tien also reached the fourth round and will face Medvedev next.

Poor playing conditions force ISL clubs to scout alternative home venues

CHENNAI

With the Indian Super League (ISL) 2025-26 set to kick off on February 14, several clubs are scrambling to secure suitable home venues amid poor playing conditions and infrastructure challenges at existing stadiums.

While the season's start was confirmed after Union sports minister Mansukh Mandaviya's announcement and clubs agreed to participate, venue readiness has emerged as a major concern. Many ISL teams rely on public infrastructure, and delays in renovation work and scheduling conflicts with non-sporting events have pushed venue arrangements into uncertainty, also contributing to a delay in fixture announcements. Kerala Blasters have been forced to shift from their traditional home at the Jawaharlal Nehru Stadium in Kochi, which is currently undergoing renovation. The club will play all seven home matches at the EMS Stadium in Kozhikode, subject to final clearances. Although the venue has a seating capacity of around 35,000, it too requires urgent work after hosting the Indian Supercross Racing League final in December, which left the turf converted into a mud track. Kerala Football Association officials said renovation work is underway and the stadium is expected to be handed over by mid-February, though no fixed date has been confirmed. Cost and accessibility reportedly played a key role in choosing Kozhikode over Malappuram as an alternative venue.
